OUTAGE LASTS HOUR . . .

Widespread Power Blackout Hits State

A widespread power outage Wednesday night blacked out portions of Nebraska for approximately an hour.

All of Lincoln, except that small portion served by the Lincoln Electric System's A Street power station, came within the blackout area.

The cause of the outage, according to Howard Erickson, managing director of the Nebraska Public Power System, was not within the state. He said the failure originated within Reclamation Bureau sources to the north, probably in South Dakota.

Among the cities reported affected were Norfolk, North Platte, Columbus, Omaha and rural areas of Hastings.

Two Lincoln hospitals, Bryan Memorial and Providence, were forced to operate on emergency generators, but experienced no difficulties. Lincoln General and St. Elizabeth reported only flickering lights.

Traffic lights throughout the city were out, and police officers and citizens directed traffic during the blackout. One minor injury accident was reported which probably resulted from the lack of signals.

City power officials reported they had shut off street lights to help conserve power as the outage began at about 9:30 p.m.

Fire Department authorities said that many alarms throughout the city were set off by the power failure, but reported no fires.

The Lancaster County Sheriff's Department lost its radio system during the blackout, but, according to a deputy, maintained communication through State Patrol radios.

An NPPS spokesman said the exact cause of the outage would probably not be known by Thursday.

Ike's Condition Said Improved

Washington (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was reported making some progress Wednesday, a day after suffering what doctors called another major heart attack.

The outlook was still "guarded." Army doctors explained that the word meant that "in this early period after any heart attack, the outcome is unpredictable."

In his suite at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Eisenhower was being given oxygen continuously. He was being fed a low salt, liquid diet by mouth.

Eisenhower, 77, had been recovering from a major heart attack of June 15 when he was stricken again early Tuesday with his sixth attack since 1955 and the third this year.

Soon after the June 15 heart attack, Eisenhowe's doctors said that "the early period following any heart attack is the most critical." They further defined the 'critical period" as generally extending through the first week immediately following such an attack.

Eisenhower is being monitored around the clock by electronic devices linked to his tall frame, to keep tabs on his temperature, blood pressure, breathing rate and pulse, and the activity of his heart.

Nebraska Rides Nixon Bandwagon To Victory

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Wirtier

Miami Beach — Nebraska rode the Nixon bandwagon to victory early Thursday.

Aboard early, securely fastened to their seats by the safety belts of political and statutory commitment, the Cornhusker State delegates rode past the finish line united in triumph.

All 16 votes went to the former vice president, a fact which had been preordained for months.

For Nixon, the Nebraska vote was merely a formal presentation of the spoils of his big presidential primary victory last May.

Three months ago, Nixon captured 70% of the Nebraska primary vote in toppling opposition from both the left and the right, and laid claim to 15 delegates legally committed to support him for two convention ballots.

Convention News On Pages 15, 33

The sixteenth delegate, Sen. Roman Hruska, delegation chairman, is a longtime associate committed to Nixon in spirit for a decade.

The solid 16-vote block delivered to the former vice president also added substance to his long-time claim of support for Nebraska.

"Nixon country," it has been called.

And Nixon country it has been.

In 1960, Nixon won the presidential primary election with a huge write-in vote, gathered in all of Nebraska's votes at the national convention in Chicago, then swept the state in the fall by his largest percentage of victory in any of the 50 states.

In 1964, another huge write-in vote rolled in to embarass Sen. Barrry Goldwater in Nebraska's Republican primary election. Goldwater, whose name was the only one on the ballot, won the primary — but failed to capture 50% of the GOP vote.

Hruska Votes

Casting Nebraska's votes after interminable hours of noise and oratory was Hruska, who earlier in the evening told The Star he is content to accept Nixon's choice for a vice presidential running mate with full confidence that he will be acceptable to Nebraska Republicans.

"I am in favor of the presidential nominee having a free choice," Hruska said.

"He must have somebody he can work with, somebody he can have confidence in, somebody he can campaign with, and somebody who is fully competent to be president," the senator noted.

Splash Of Chaos

Balloons, banners, bands and bright bunting preceded the presidential ballotting. Nebraskans marched in the Nixon demonstration, a noisy splash of color and confusion.

Earlier inquiries of Nebraska delegates, a predominantly conservative band, indicated that Gov. Ronald Reagan of California would be their leading choice for Nixon's running mate.

Their reception earlier in the day of the entreaty on behalf of Reagan extended by Max Rafferty at a mid-afternoon caucus was more than friendly.

By contrast, Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois ran into a stiffly polite reaction when he appeared before the delegation a day earlier to plead the case of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Also mentioned by Nebraskans as a preferred running mate have been Mayor John Lindsay of New York, Sen. John Tower of Texas, Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Percy.

Captures First Ballot Victory

. . . WITH 692 VOTES

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—Richard Milhouse Nixon, who battled a loser's image to build a political comeback swept to his second Republican presidential nomination early Thursday.

When the rhythmic roll call of the states reached Wisconsin, Nixon's vote reached the 667 majority which won him the prize, his party's 29th nomination for the White House.

And the Republican National Convention exploded into tumult, with cheering, sign-waving Nixon partisans leading the surging roar.

The giant wave of cheers began even before Wisconsin cast its decisive ballots. For Nixon had won its 30 votes by primary election, and the convention knew that made it the crucial delegation.

692 Votes

Nixon wound up the roll call with 692 votes. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller got 287, California Gov. Ronald Reagan received 182.

And when the call was completed, with Nixon the winner, states which had cast votes for other candidates began switching their ballots to the nominee.

It came after 7½ hours of nominating speeches and of carefully rehearsed and staged demonstrations for the contenders: Nixon, Rockefeller, Reagan.

But even amid the blizzard of balloons and the sea of signs for Rockefeller and Reagan, it was evident that the convention belonged to Nixon.

Another Try

And so the former vice president, who narrowly lost the White House to the late John F. Kennedy in 1960, won the right to try again, next Nov. 5.

He will carry the Republican standard against the man the Democrats nominate in Chicago in three weeks. Nixon has said he is certain his opponent will be Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

There was little tension, and most of the excitement was manufactured, as the convention held its climactic session in a hall packed with some 18,000 people.

The marathon Republican talk-in produced 52 speeches of nomination and seconding.

12 Nominations

In all 12 names were placed in presidential nomination, including such favorite sons as Sen. Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii, Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina—who used to be a Democrat—and Rockefeller's brother, Winthrop, of Arkansas.

And then there was the ever-running Harold E. Stassen, who had a delegate-nephew make his nominating speech. It produced a 31-second ovation.

Seldom had so many people paid so little attention to so many speeches. As the parade of minor candidates was placed in nomination, delegates wandered the aisles, talked among themselves.

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland offered the convention the name of the man with the votes, crediting Nixon with "the greatest political comeback in American history."

Twin Defeats

It was a comeback from twin defeats, in 1960 for the White House, and in 1962 for the governorship of California. After that one, Nixon bid a bitter, but temporary, farewell to politics.

RICHARD M. NIXON

"It's a great night," Nixon, calling signals from his Hilton Plaza Hotel penthouse, told an aide as the nominating speeches were made.

Agnew said Nixon was the man "not only to match this moment but to master it."

Amid cheers, he described the former vice president this way:

"A man firm in upholding the law, and determined in the pursuit of justice. A man who can negotiate peace without sacrificing life, liberty or land. A man who had the courage to rise up from the depths of defeat six years ago, and to make the greatest political comeback in American history."

Nixon V.P. Preference Reported

Miami Beach (UPI) — A report that Richard M. Nixon had narrowed his vice presidential choice down to Mark O. Hatfield or John V. Lindsay whipped through this town Wednesday with the speed of gossip. The Nixon camp said it wasn't so and Hatfield said he would be an "activist" vice president.

The report came from a source within the Republican hierarchy who should be in a position to know. He refused to let his name be published in association with the news he offered.

The source said Nixon had given serious consideration to Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts and Gov. George M. Romney of Michigan but eliminated them. He said Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio, whose availability for second place was being advertised by Ohio delegates, had informed Nixon that he had no interest in the job.

Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon, promoting Hatfield, an Oregon senator and former governor, for second place, said if Nixon chose a southerner to run with him it would lead to "a real insurrection on the floor of the convention."

"If Nixon picks anyone more conservative than he, I think we will lose and lose big," he said.

Scaling Of Mt. McKinley More Than Casual Jaunt

By JOAN McCULLOUGH
Star Staff Writer

Experience, four years of planning and 1,350 pounds of supplies and equipment were combined for a climb up Mt. McKinley, the highest vertical rise from the lowlands to summit in the world, according to Mark Schweitzer.

Schweitzer was a member of the four-man team which completed the 31-day climb in June. The group was the first to climb the Alaska peak since an ill-fated expedition of seven was lost in June, 1967.

Schweitzer, of Metuchen, N.J., is visiting in Lincoln. Other members of the team included a doctor from Montana, a glaciologist, and a journalist from Oregon.

Team Experienced

The team was assembled through mountain climbing organizations, Schweitzer said. He started climbing seven years ago in Canada and on the East Coast. He attended mountain climbing school in Switzerland and did some climbing in the Alps.

Mt. McKinely has the longest vertical rise of glacial climbing in the world, 15,000 feet, Schweitzer said. About 100 people have climbed the mountain in the past sixty years.

Food for seven weeks was packed in metal tins. Fuel, tents and sleeping bags were strapped on the climbers' backs for the 20,300 feet ascent.

To keep warm in the sub-zero temperatures and winds up to 100 miles per hour, the men wore three layers of clothing covered by a nylon suit and three pairs of gloves and boots.

Snowshoes Used

Snowshoes were necessary to distribute the weight more evenly on the snow bridges across the ice crevices.

The sun set about 11 p.m. each day and rose at 2:30 a.m. The climbers usually started about 12 p.m. since the snow would become firmer in the shadow of the mountain.

They climbed in two-man teams, with one group finding the trail while the others carried the supplies from the last camp. They camped six times on the mountain.

Radio contact was made each morning and evening with the ranger station in McKinley Park. The high altitude at the summit made the men dizzy and "we could not believe we were actually there," Schweitzer said.

U.S. Steel Rate Increase Sets Pace For Other Prices

Pittsburgh (AP) — A price battle between the White House and the steel industry appeared ended Wednesday with both the government and companies compromising on modest price increases.

U.S. Steel, the nation's biggest producer and usually the pacesetter, announced it was boosting prices on steels used in making such major products as auto bodies, refrigerators, stoves, machinery and buildings.

But the hikes were not as high as the nearly five per cent across-the-board increases announced a week ago by the No. 2 producer, Bethlehem, and Bethlehem immediately fell in line, chopping its boost to 2.4 per cent.

It seems almost a certainty that the rest of the industry would follow suit. Two other big firms, Inland and Armco, announced within hours that they would remain competitive, meaning that their prices would be brought in line with U.S. Steel's. All the price hikes are effective Aug. 16.

If all the companies follow the same pattern, it would mean that the latest round of price increases would apply to about 60% of the industry's shipments.

At the Texas White House, President Johnson was quoted as saying the moves by U.S. Steel and Bethlehem are a "substantial improvement from the general inflationary trend."

Elizabeth Taylor Leaves Hospital

London (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor Wednesday left the clinic where she underwent a partial hysterectomy July 22 and told well-wishers: "I'm okay. I feel fine."

Miss Taylor, in a rainbow-striped coat and with her hair tied back, held her husband Richard Burton's hand as she came out of the Fitzroy Nuffield Nursiing Home. Burton's 10-year-old daughter Kate was with them.

The partial hysterectomy means the 36-year-old actress can no longer have children.

Indiana Youth, 16, Killed In Mishap West Of Kearney

Kearney (AP) — An Indiana youth was killed Wednesday in a one-car accident one and one-half miles west of Kearney on Interstate 80.

The victim was identified as Earl Conrad, 16, of Angola, Ind.

The patrol said that his two brothers, 18-year-old William and 19-year-old Joe, were hospitalized at Kearney.

Officers said the westbound car driven by William Conrad, struck a sign on the shoulder of the road.

New York Times News Summary

Delegates Seem Poised To Nominate 'Old Pro'

(c) New York Times News Service

Miami Beach — The delegates massed in Miami Beach's Convention Hall seemed poised to nominate Richard Nixon, the "old pro" of American politics, for president. One of his floor managers asserted that the former vice president would receive over 700 votes — more than enough for victory — on the first ballot. Behind the scenes, confident Nixon strategists were working on a plan to put Mayor John V. Lindsay on the ticket without dividing the party. The liberal New York mayor had told friends he might not be able to turn down the vice presidential nod although he was "troubled" at the thought of linking his name with the conservative Nixon's. (More on Page 1)

Campaigns End Differently

Miami Beach — The three major Republican presidential rivals spent their last campaigning hours in different ways. A composed and confident Nixon remained in opulent seclusion in his suite in the Hilton Plaza Hotel. A still-smiling Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller gave a final news conference at which he predicted that he would win on the fourth or fifth ballot. Gov. Ronald Reagan raced up and down Collins Avenue meeting with state delegation caucuses and then, in a surprise move, sent telegrams to all the delegations stating that he would not accept a vice presidential nomination.

Steel Compromise Reached

New York — The seven-day steel price war ended in a compromise as the United States Steel Corp., the giant of the industry, announced a 2.5% price increase. Other major steel producers immediaely rolled back their earlier five per cent across-the-board price increases. The White House was pleased, calling the action "a substantial improvement from the general inflationary threat." (More on Page 1)

$4 Million Fraud Charged

Washington — A federal grand jury indicted four persons and two companies on 30 charges of conspiracy to defraud the government of $4 million in the production of Navy rocket launchers.

Two Militants Ordered Held

Cleveland — "Salaam" shouted Fred (Ahmed) Evans as he walked into a courtroom filled with fellow black nationalists. Two hours later he and a 19-year-old youth strapped to stretcher were ordered held for Cleveland grand jury on charges that they murdered three city policemen in a July 23 gun battle.

HHH Aides Gain 6 Phones

Chicago — In the Democratic convention city, Vice President Humphrey's workers have had six telephones installed in their downtown campaign offices despite a three-month strike by electrical workers. Disgruntled spokesmen for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who discovered the extra telephones, said they would not circumvent the strike to alleviate their own telephone shortage. A union spokesman said that as long as the six phones were inoperative, his organization would not raise an objection to them.

Disentanglement Said Sought

Prague — Czechoslovakia is said to be attempting to disentangle herself from the economic grip of the Soviet Union. With feelers out all over Western Europe to find $400 million to $500 million in hard-currency loans for sophisticated industrial equipment, Czechoslovak officials are visiting Moscow to renegotiate the cost and conditions of vital imports. Prisoner List Turned Over

Paris —At the 16th negotiating session, the United States delegation handed to the North Vietnamese delegation a list of 14 captured North Vietnamese seamen that the U.S. plans to release soon. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the chief American delegate, expressed hope that the move would lead to expanded prisoner exchanges. (More on Page 2)

End To War Said Possible

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia — In the first closed working session of the Biafra peace conference, Nigeria's chief delegate said the 13-month-old civil war could end immediately if the breakaway eastern region were to make a joint statement with Nigeria upholding the "unity and territorial integrity" of Africa's most populous nation.

Harriman Announces Release Of Prisoners

Paris (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, U.S. peace negotiator, announced Wednesday the forthcoming release of 14 North Vietnamese sailors held by the United States. He asked freedom for more U.S. airmen held in North Vietnam.

Freeing the sailors was a gesture of goodwill like the recent North Vietnamese release of three American pilots, he said after meeting at the peace table with Hanoi's delegates.

"I asked for a list of those being held as an act of humanity," Harriman told newsmen.

He appealed especially for the names of those injured, and of those held for a long time.

The chief North Vietnamese delegate at the session, Ambassador Ha Van Lau, said his government takes a humane attitude toward the men it holds. The North Vietnamese claim to have captured about 1,000 American airmen. They have released six this year.

A U.S. spokesman said the 14 sailors, captured in 1966 when torpedo boats attacked U.S. vessels, are the last North Vietnamese in American hands and they will be freed soon.

Lau said he would consult his government about how to handle the release. Most North Vietnamese captured by U.S. forces have been turned over to the South Vietnamese.

No Progress Reported

Harriman had no progress to report from the 16th session of the talks, which are now almost three months old. Another meeting will be held next Wednesday.

The North Vietnamese insisted, as they have from the start, that the United States must stop bombing them before the talks can go on to other subjects. Harriman recalled that President Johnson already had limited the bombing.

So far, he said, there had been no response that would justify the risks that a complete bombing halt would bring for U.S. troops.

"The United States is ready to end our limited bombardment if our restraint is matched by restraint on your side," he added. Lau replied: "We reject those proposals."

At a news conference afterward Lau's spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le, declined to comment on reports that the Vietnamese have told the U.S. government through intermediaries that the recent lull in fighting should be considered a kind of restraint.

Resistance Continues

'I propose that you study the situation in South Vietnam in recent months," he said. 'As long as U.S. aggression continues, the Vietnamese people will continue to resist this agression."

The North Vietnamese have insisted that it was slander to say that they had troops in the South. But Lau referred to U.S. proposals on limiting North Vietnamese infiltration as an escalation of American terms for stopping the bombs. He did not deny that the North Vietnamese are infiltrating.

Pham Van Dong, his premier, was quoted in the Philippine weekly Graphic as saying: 'We do not deny that. We are indeed helping the NLF (Viet Cong's National Liberation Front); in every way we can — including the sending of our own troops."

American officials consider such an acknowledgment would be important. They point out that it is hard to discuss the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South until their presence is admitted.

North Vietnamese delegates in Paris declined to say if they considered the quotation authentic.

Xuan Thuy, the chief negotiator, was absent. A spokesman said he was slightly indisposed. He also missed last week's session.

Reds Face Arms Shortage

Saigon (UPI) — A captured document revealed Wednesday reported that Communist forces fighting in Vietnam are threatened with a shortage of guns and bullets due largely to "seriously high" losses of arms and ammunition in recent battles.

The document released by the U.S. mission in Saigon quoted North Vietnamese Deputy Premier Pham Hung as warning of the shortage. Pham is believed to be in South Vietnam personally directing the ground fighting by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces.

The disclosure came as U.S. B52 bombers dropped some 900 tons of bombs on a Viet Cong supply route leading into Siagon, touching off a string of big explosions on the ground, possibly from sorely needed Communist ammunition supplies.

Helicopters Resuced

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, U.S. helicopters rescued 118 starving, half-naked Montagnard tribesmen who said they had worked at gunpoint for the Communists for more than two years in the mountains of Khanh Hoa Province 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

In a broadcast monitored in Tokyo, Radio Hanoi said Wednesday the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese "will have to launch a total offensive and promote extensive uprisings everywhere" in South Vietnam "in order to win bigger victories."

But desertions, shortages of weapons and ammunition and heavy allied air raids and artillery bombardments appaarently were taking their toll of Communist strength for the long-awaited but still non-existent third offensive.

Czech Feelers Over West Europe Looking For Hard Currency Loans

By PAUL HOFMANN

© New York Times Service

Prague — Czechoslovakia has feelers out all over Western Europe for $400-to-$500-million in hard currency loans to buy sophisticated equipment to help make her lagging industry competitive in world markets.

At the same time, high Czechoslovak officials are shuttling between Prague and Moscow to renegotiate the cost and conditions of their country's vital imports of oil, iron ore and other raw materials from the Soviet Union.

Both courses of economic action, about which little is being said here in public, are interrelated. Czechoslovakia, which has become increasingly independent-minded, is seeking to lessen its dependence on the Soviet Union.

"It must be done cautiously, but it must be done," a member of the Prague Chamber of Commerce said. "We just cannot afford to end abruptly our economic cooperation with the other socialist countries, but neither can we afford to go on as we have until now."

The prudent atttempt at disentanglement from the Soviet economic grip may well, in the view of qualified Czechoslovaks and foreigners here, represent the second round in the long fight over liberalization. The first round ended, according to this view, with last Saturday's meeting in Bratislava when Moscow virtually abandoned its hard line on the Czechoslovak Communist party's reform program.

In the second round, Prague would seek to reduce more, though subtler, Moscow's chances of applying pressure by economic sanctions.

The role of the Soviet Union in the Czechoslovak economy appears formidable, and Czechoslovakia seems extremely vulnerable to Soviet sanctions. Almost all vehicles here run on gas from Soviet oil; Soviet wheat is used in much of the bread here; Czechoslovak textile mills are able to unload their cloth on the Soviet market.

But, Czechoslovak experts point out, their country is also an important supplier of undisclosed quantities of uranium for Soviet nuclear projects. It also sends experts to underdeveloped countries and provides other important services, nominally for the international Communist movement, but actually for Moscow.

Furthermore, it is pointed out here, the Soviet economy depends to some extent on heavy machinery built in Czechoslovakia. So, the contention her goes, Prague too has some bargaining levers.

HHH Pledges Support For Viet Nam Effort

Minneapolis, Minn. (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey vowed Wednesday there would be no 'sellout" in South Vietnam if he is elected president.

In a short, fiery speech, Humphrey also promised to put down violence at home and to give his full support to law enforcement officials.

"We have no intention of leaving the people of South Vietnam at the mercy of an aggressor," Humphrey told the National Catholic War Veterans convention.

"We will seek a peaceful and honorable settlement in Vietnam," he said, "But I know you don't want a sellout and if I am president of the United States you won't get a sell out."

The convention speech was Humphrey's only public appearance of a week which he is spending in seclusion at his lake home at Waverly, Minn., west of here.

In his speech, Humphrey said, "Violence both at home and abroad is wrong. We cannot allow aggressors or law breakers to get their way. We have to put down violence before we can build a better world."

Fort Madison, Iowa (UPI) — A fire of undetermined causes resulted in considerable damage at the Shaeffer Pen Co. plant here Wednesday.

The fire in an exhaust system set off the sprinkler system in the entire plant and caused considerable water damage. One plant employe, John Berry, was overcome by smoke and hospitalized for about six hours.

Tito To Visit Czech Capital

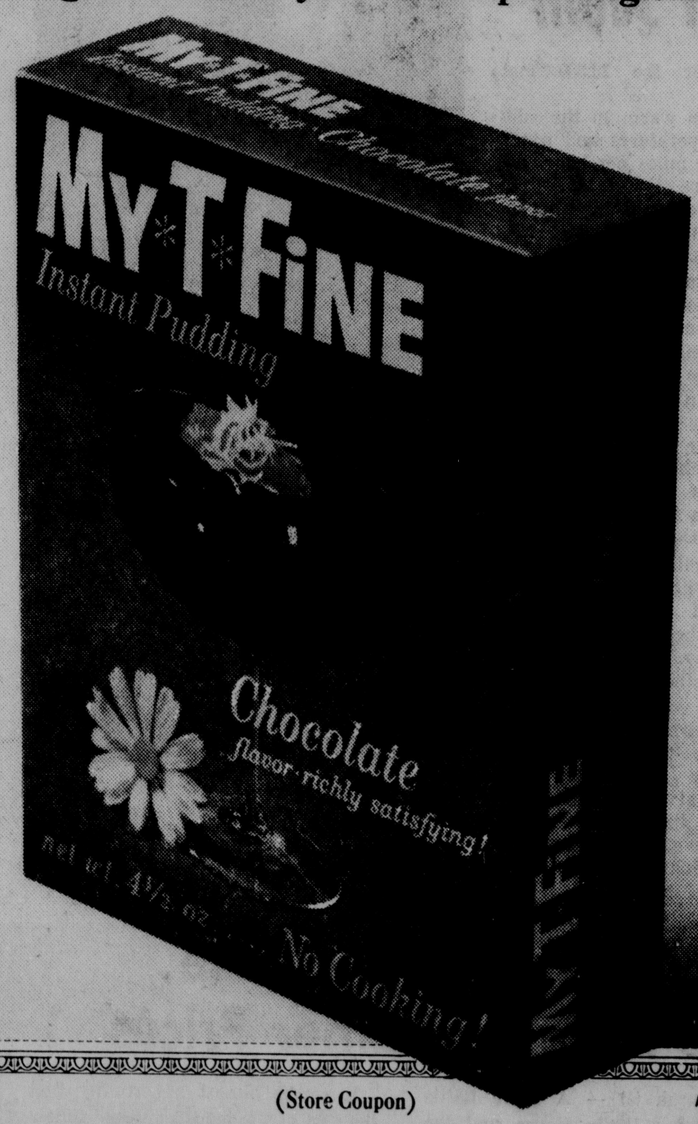

Prague (UPI) — President Tito of Yugoslavia, who first broke free from Kremlin domination 20 years ago, will visit his young "Czech reformer proteges" for three days starting Friday, it was announced Wednesday.

Shortly afterwards, early next week, Romania's President Nicolae Ceausescu, who also led a quiet successful rebellion against Soviet influence last year, will journey to Prague to visit the Czech leaders.

The two visits had originally been scheduled for last week, but Tito and Ceausescu had to postpone their trips because of the extensions in a showdown confrontation between Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union.

Country School Lends Charm To Gage County Fairgrounds

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — Candied apples for the teacher?

No, but somebody deserves an "A" anyway for this unusual combination of country school and county fair. In fact, the grade should go to all 15 directors of the Gage County Agricultural Society.

They personally moved, scraped and painted old Center Sicily School, then poured sidewalks so the addition would measure up to the rest of the attractive grounds. Directors Clifford Winkle and C. A. Kimmerling spearheaded the spring project, but with assists from the entire fair board.

"The paint on that school must have been at least 99 years old," chorused William Scheve, William Marten and Chester Kassing, "even though the date over the door reads 1886."

The old school is being used for youngsters' art exhibits just as donors Clyde Thober and son, Alan, had intended. Located eight miles south of Beatrice originally, the building had been purchased and auctioned before being given to the fair board.

Inside Cleaned Up

An interior cleanup was provided by the Women's Division of the Beatrice Chamber of Commerce. A newly blackened stove, a wall clock and well-carved desks add authenticity.

The school is one of two buildings which perpetuates the board's tradition of "at least one improvement per year." The other 1968 innovation is a quonset horse barn of 50 stalls — and it's a good thing there weren't 49.

"We're in livestock up to our ears," said County Agent Vic McClure. "Everything is full and I don't know what we'd have done without that horse barn."

As it is, the new barn holds but half the horse entries. The facility itself promoted interest on the part of 4-Hers, since it was their effort that brought the barn about.

Leader Merle Willet and his Friendship "VII" Club, assisted by Wymore's Blue River Club, have raised $3,000 towards the $5,000 project. Help is anticipated from other clubs on the remainder.

Willet heads a county horse club created especially for the improvement. Other officers are Cecil Hand, Wayne Jones, John Zahm and Carl Wylie.

Jampacked Fair

Besides the horses, the fair is jampacked with nearly 400 head of other livestock. More than 200 beef cattle lead the list, followed by 106 dairy animals.

Opening Tuesday, the fair has featured two nights of auto racing before the year-old grandstand. The Marvin Rainwater Show is scheduled Thusday evening, subsequent to an afternoon tractor pulling contest. Chitwood's Thrill Show is billed Friday night.

Two Ak-Sar-Ben Pioneer Farm Family awards will be presented Thursday night, one recipient being fair board director William Scheve. The other goes to Mrs. Elva B. Epard and daughter, Mrs. Betty Replogle.

Omaha F105 Pilot Helped Destroy 3 Enemy Boats

Saigon (UPI) — Maj. Richard Matthews, 33, of Omaha, Neb., was one of several Air Force F105 Thunderchief pilots who destroyed three boats with 20 millimeter cannon fire 22 miles north northwest of Dong Hoi Tuesday.

Among other pilots on the mission were Maj. Clarence E. Langford, 37, of Mulvane, Kan.; Capt. Peter K. Foley, 26, of Spring Lake, N.J.; and Capt. Ralph E. Durnbaugh, 29, of Dayton, Ohio.

Fluoridation In Omaha Due By Mid-October

Omaha (AP) — General Manager Ralph Trester said Wednesday the Metropolitan Utilities District plans to start fluoridation of Omaha's water about mid October.

He said the date depends on the outcome of a pending lawsuit challenging fluoridation, and on how long it takes to deliver and install $16,000 worth of special equipment which was purchased Wednesday.

Roy M. Harrop, B. F. Stahl, Donald J. Livingstonn and David D. Loomis filed a suit trying to block fluoridation after voters approved fluoridation in the May 14 primary election. A hearing date on the petition has not been set.

Trester said it would take about 60 days for the equipment to be delivered and another 15 days to install it.

'68 Wheat Crop Test Weight Up

The 1968 Nebraska wheat crop has a higher test weight than last year but protein content is lower, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported.

The division said the average test weight is 61.7 pounds per bushel, and the protein content 11.2%. Moisture content of the new wheat is 12.3%.

Exercise Option

Falls City (UPI) — The municipal government here has passed a resolution to exercise the option on land where a proposed municipal building will be located. The land is owned by the Towle Realty Co.

NANCY OSSENKOP

Lincoln Girl Show's Queen

Seward (AP) — Nancy Ossenkop of Lincoln made her mark at the Seward district dairy show.

The 17-year-old Miss Ossenkop was named queen of the show and won purple ribbons in the individual class and junior dairy herd competition.

First place in showmanship went to Jim Imig, 17, of Seward. Sixteen purple ribbons were given.

Rites Thursday For R. C. Brown

Holdrege — Funeral services for Richard C. Brown, 62, prominent business and civic leader here, will be at 3 p.m. Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church in Holdrege. Burial will also be in Holdrege.

Mr. Brown, whose death Monday followed a long illness, was also a worker in the educational field, on both local and state levels. He had served on the Holdrege Board of Education and as vice president, president and executive secretary of the Nebraska State School Boards Association.

Omaha School Board Adopts Record Budget

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Board of Education has adopted a record budget of $32,361,159. A public hearing on the Omaha school district's budget drew no protests. The budget shows an increase of more than $4,600,000 from this year's school expenditures. It gives teachers a $550 increase in base pay to $6,250 and includes $600,000 for more teachers.

The Omaha school budget also allocates $250,000 for extra pay and training for teachers in slum area schools, $250,000 to educate incorrigible students, and $150,000 for school security.

Omaha Curfew Proposal Shelved By City Council

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha City Council has put on the shelf a proposal to establish a 1:30 a.m., curfew for persons under 18 years of age.

Half a dozen teenagers, members of the mayor's youth advisory council, testified against the proposal before the council tabled the measure.

The City Council asked the youngsters to submit suggestions to be used as a basis for writing a new curfew ordinance.

The proposed ordinance tabled by the council would have kept youths under 18 off streets and out of public places between 1:30 a.m. and 5 a.m. except when they were engaged in a lawful business activity or accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Chaplain Hennies Leaving Kearney

Kearney (AP) — The Rev. Ronald Hennies, a central figure in the controversy surrounding the Kearney Boys Training School earlier this year, has accepted a call to become rector of St. Lukes Episcopal Church at Buffalo, Wyo.

He is expected to leave for the new position later this month.

Father Hennies has served as religious education director at St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Kearney since April of last year. He also had been a chaplain at the training school.

Randolph Native Col. Jones Cited

Scott AFB, Ill. (UPI)—Col. John Jones, inspector general for the U.S. Air Force communications service, has been awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Legion of Merit medal.

Jones, a native of Randolph, Neb., received the cluster for his contributions to the service from Aug. 9, 1967, to July 31, 1968.

Jones' wife, the former Ruth Rice of Tekamah, Neb., is a teacher at Henry Raab School in Belleville, Ill..

Voc Tech School Post To Hanson

Sidney (AP) — Milan G. Hanson of Hastings has been hired as assistant director of the Western Nebraska Vocational Technical School.

Hanson holds a master's degree from Colorado State University and came to Sidney from the mechanical department of Hastings High School.

6 Reservoirs Report Water Level Decline

By the Associated Press

Bureau of Reclamation officials have reported considerable drops in the water levels of six reservoirs in southwest Nebraska and northwest Kansas. The officials said the decreases are being caused by continued hot dry weather and extensive irrigation.

Nebraska News

The largest drop reported was at Norton Dam in Kansas where the level was 9½ feet below the top of conservation capacity.

The top of conservation capacity is considered by the bureau as a full reservoir.

Other readings included Harry Strunk Lake, 6.72 feet below capacity; Swanson Lake, nearly six feet below capacity; Harlan County Reservoir, 5:43 feet down; Hugh Butler Lake, 3.38 feet under capacity, and Enders Dam, 3.15 feet under capacity.

Nebraskans' Son, Family Missing On Pleasure Trip

Johnstown (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Evans of Johnstown have been notified that their son, Larry Dean Evans, his wife and 6-year-old daughter, have been reported missing after taking off from Norfolk, Va., on a pleasure trip.

A couple from Naples, Italy, was also aboard the plane.

Evans is a lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy.

The group left Norfolk Friday for Wise, Va., and landed in Danville, Va., waited for bad weather to clear and then continued their journey Friday evening. There has been no word on the plane since it left Danville.

According to information received here, the search for the craft is continuing.

Burlington Asks Omaha-Billings Rail Service Cut

Washington (AP) — The Chicago - Burlington - Quincy Railroad, claiming estimated losses of $1 million for 1968, has applied for permission to withdraw two trains running between Omaha, Neb., and Billings, Mont.

The trains, which handle passengers, baggage, mail, newspapers and milk, were ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission to remain in service a year ago, but the railroad has made another application to withdraw them effective Sept. 7.

The ICC will decide within 10 days whether to further investigate the application, or whether to permit the withdrawal of the two trains — Nos. 42 and 43—from the 896-mile, 22-hour runs.

An application filed with the ICC said losses on the runs for 1967 amounted to $634,170, and the railroad said losses for this year would be more than $1 million.

Gregory Given 'Eyes' Award

Hastings (UPI) — Dr. Keith Gregory, director of the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center at Clay Center, has been named to receive the "Eyes on Nebraska" award by the State Optometric Association.

He was cited for his starting of a new research center on the old Hastings Naval Ammunition Depot grounds.

The association said the research center will help stimulate the economy of the state for years ahead.

Fremont's City Wells Are Below '57 Drought Level

Fremont (AP) — Fremont city officials have reported that water levels in the city's municipal wells are near or below the level of the 1957 drought.

William Sommers, general manager of the department of utilities, who made the report, blamed the drop on increased irrigation in the area and upstream on the Platte River.

Sommers said water levels throughout the city have dropped from six inches to two feet in the past month.

He said the Platte recharges the city's supply and if it were to dry up the city would be in "real trouble."

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

MIAMI BEACH — The first real excitement of this 1968 Republican National Convention was provided with the appearance on the program of the party's standard-bearer of four years ago, Arizona's Barry Goldwater. Up until that time, the convention had been something of a drag, politically speaking.

The delegates have been enjoying themselves, all right, what with receptions by hopeful candidates, a barrage of entertainment choices and inviting waters of the Atlantic. But with every passing hour, the results of this convention have become more and more certain — that Richard M. Nixon would head the ticket for November.

As this is being written, that certainty is still being tested by Governors Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California. But their efforts appear to be totally fruitless.

That makes the convention a little lacking in excitement, but Goldwater broke the ice. He broke it because he still stands for what a lot of these delegates would like their party to be.

Goldwater's remarks got quite repetitious at times but he had some good phrases coined. Thoughts in this convention returned to 1964 when Goldwater said:

"People should be liberated to live their lives as they see fit so long as they do not harm or hinder the lives of others.

"That is still the heart of Republicanism and in our minds we know that heart is right . . ."

At an earlier point, Goldwater had told the cheering delegates that "Our party stands now, stood then (four years ago), and always has stood for the philosophy that holds that the meaning of a man's life and the hope of his future must come from within himself. It is not a gift that a nation, a leader, a Congress or a political party can confer upon him.

"Our party, our philosophy do not promise to give and give — so that it can get and get. Our philosophy says that if the promisers and the power-seekers would only get out of the way, Americans would be free to perform, person by person, people to people."

These statements and others are the kind that brought the delegates to their feet. Such expressions are a reflection of what many of these convention delegates seem to feel, a feeling tempered only by the desire and expectation of winning in November.

What Goldwater talks about is an easy way out, a mystical and mythical state of affairs in which good prevails and bad is punished. It is a state in which you rely upon the inevitability of good over bad and, therefore, can merely sit back and wait for things to come to pass as they should be.

Nor is Goldwater alone among party leadership in his blissful approach to the complexities of the modern world. The keynote address by Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington was a bore, to put it bluntly, and sounded much of the same thing.

"There is no excuse for weakness — and no justification for lawlessness," Evans admonished the assembled delegates. If that is not the old "boot-strap" philosophy, we don't know what it is.

A little later, Governor Evans spoke of the American dream.

"That is to own a share in business, to realize a profit of investment, to run a factory or a shop, to produce goods and see the money return to the community. These, not welfare, are the things which made America great, her people rich and her opportunity unlimited."

Fortunately for the GOP and the nation, the party's platform and the positions of Mr. Nixon do not see the times in such a simplistic way. More will be said later about the platform and Nixon's views. Ultra-conservatism has not been lost by the GOP, but is simply being held in abeyance.

On The Beach

Things Can Be Simple

Admittedly, life is a complex thing but there are some simple virtues that can enhance it. One of them is plain admiration — the ability to look at someone else and be glad for them or thankful to them, as the occasion might demand.

Frequently, we find ourselves viewing everything in a critical light, looking for shortcomings and faults. Of course, by finding those things that are wrong, we are able to take corrective measures and progress as a civilized nation but if we are to maintain a proper perspective or balance, we need to remember that no one is infallible.

Recently, the Associated Press reported that a man who came to this country from the Soviet Union 44 years ago has left $1,000 to President Johnson in his will.

The man, who operated a small restaurant and worked as a maintenance man for the Chicago Park district, apparently had no thought that the President needed the money. His reason was expressed in his will:

"I have the greatest respect for Lyndon B. Johnson, President of the United States of America, and in appreciation of great love and efforts in behalf of all people, regardless of race, color or creed, I bequeath him $1,000."

Curiously, some people will say the fellow must have been some kind of nut. They will speak of the other constructive things the man could have done with the $1,000 and the help it could have been to someone in need.

But the Chicago man's action has nothing, really, to do with money. The money was but a tool, used to express a sincere feeling of appreciation. A lot of us would be better off if we loked now and then for something to appreciate and tried to recognize it.

Gateway Response Encouraging

The response among Lincoln residents to Gateway Realty's announcement that it would no longer accept racially discriminating listings has been extremely encouraging. Owner-manager Ray Gottner says he is "tickled to death" by it.

Everyone in Lincoln should be.

Gottner says his firm has received "dozens and dozens of compliments and not one bad remark." Business has increased. Gottner notes that he expected a lot of opposition from "some uneducated people, but we haven't even had that." (Let it be noted here that the uneducated have no monopoly on racial prejudice.)

Of the 13 or 14 listings Gateway had with restrictions on race, color, national origin or religion when it decided not to handle such listings, about half of the persons involved took their business elsewhere, Gottner says. (One wonders where, so as to avoid those firms in the future.)

Gottner said that although the step taken by his firm was widely publicized, "I shouldn't take all the credit. Several other firms are doing the same thing. They're just not announcing it." He added that a number of real estate firms are helping minority groups find adequate housing.

The firms which are not announcing their good intentions should do so. Let the right-thinking people of Lincoln know who is helping move the city toward racial progress. The same goes for those helping minority groups. There's nothing to hide; no reason to fear loss of business.

The prejudiced minority should be informed of the direction the enlightened majority is moving in. Maybe they'll get on the bandwagon.

Reappraisal Of Veep's Role

NEW YORK — After speculation about the Republican nominee for vice president, the quadriennial guessing game is not over. We still have the Democratic convention ahead of us.

It is a sad commentary on our political immaturity that in a nation of 200,000,000 persons, the leading great power today, we are still so offhand about this crucial choice.

And is is critical. It has become a cliche that the vice president is the heartbeat-away-from - the - presidency man, yet twice in the past twenty-three years the death of a president in office has catapulted a vice president into the awesome job.

It is traditional to regard the vice presidency as a prestige job which is all gloss and surface, without depth or distinction. The v.p.'s one duty, really, is to preside over the Senate and, cast his vote in case of a tie. And, as Will Rogers long ago used to remind us, "to inquire each morning into the health of the president."

Small wonder then, that John Adams, the nation's ifrst vice president, said, "My country has contrived for me the most insignificant office that ever the invention of man or his imagination conceived." And later Daniel Webster, upon being offered the numination, refused, saying, "No thank you. I do not propose to be buried until I am really in my coffin."

Of the eight vice presidents who reached the presidency by reason of the death in office of the chief executive, only four, Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge, Harry Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson were chosen president in their own right. This was not because they had advanced to the office naturally from the Number Two spot, but because they were elected after filling out a dead president's term.

The vice president of the United States, alas, is a political sad sack. We have no real insurance against mediocrity in the office.

...e than any other elected ...ial the veep can reflect, ... bitterness, on Paul Eldridge's "Maxims of a Modern Man" and see for himself that "History is the transformation of tumultuous conquerors into silent footnotes."

We need to revise our entire system of choosing the men for the highest and the second highest offices in the nation, but particularly that of the vice president who is invariably a political compromise to geographical balance and vote-getting who throw a lot of names of faithful lower echelon office holders into a hat are always concerned that a presidential candidate from say, the Middle West, be balanced by a man from the East or in whatever other geographical combination will please the greatest number of voters. .

It is a terrifying thing that great sums of money spent to hire pollsters, buy advertising space, television and radio time are, like Gresham's law on money, driving good, competent, qualified men out of the running before the independently wealthy candidate or one whose rich backers want him in office at any price. Implicit in this hazard to the country is the tendency of voters to be swayed emotionally by a man's "image" on television, his burnished, manufactured, put-on personality, and vote him into office.

In their own way, when they were serving as vice president, both Richard M. Nixon and Hubert H. Humphrey tried to set a new trend for the office. Nixon did better than Humphrey because President Eisenhower's illness and his willingness to allocate responsibility to his vice president allowed Nixon more scope. LBJ himself, as President Kennedy's vice president, carried out quite ably some missions abroad. Mr. Humphrey has done the same, with notable success, when LBJ has been willing to take his hands off every aspect of the job and let his vice president perform a useful service for the country.

The choice of the man, and the functions of the vice president's office should no longer be left to political hackery and personal whim. The stakes for the United States are too high.

Patchwork Prairie Country

The sun is hot in a sapphire sky and I see the shape of autumn crystalizing. Ripening peaches scent the summer's air now while a bright red glow tinges the sunny side of the fruit. The fall apples are growing bigger and the wild grape clusters are falling downward under their own weight. Young rooster pheasants dart into the underbrush minus their tail feathers that haven't grown out yet to give them that truly regal look of a strutting cock.

The bulk of fruits and vegetables has been preserved for winter fare with perhaps one last fling of canning to come later when the autumn rains renew a spurt of growth. Many flowers that have been at their fragrant best are now setting seed.

Summer is slipping away but in the short golden stretch of time still left, it is possible to savor many pleasures . . . the short vacation, picnics in the park, golfing and swimming.

☆ ☆ ☆

Our little dog does such funny things that I must laugh in spite of myself. Last night he followed me into the garden where he immediately took it upon himself to run through the tomato vines, stopping long enough to paw at green tomatoes that dangled before his eyes. I persuaded him to get out and assumed he left the garden. That is until I looked down the row of cabbages.

There beneath the big, broad cabbage leaves he was hidden except for his head that peeked up alongside the head of a cabbage.

He also has the habit of jumping up and catching the legs of The Farmer's overalls as they flap on the line. I asked The Farmer how he would like to wear a pair of overalls with a fringe around the bottom of the legs. He might start a fad among the farmers in this area which I assure you would be no more ridiculous than some of the mad fads among men's wear that I have seen lately.

Aphids, aphids and more aphids seems to be the topic of conversation wherever farmers gather. I have heard them called green bugs, too, but whatever the name, they are downright damaging to our farm crops.

The Farmer had a good stand of hybrid sedan grass, newly planted and thriving about four inches high. Three nights ago we had looked at the field and were very happy because of the growth it had made after our previous shower of rain. Last night we chanced to walk through the field and found nothing but dead and dying plants, red brown in color, sucked of all the plant nutrients. Upon further investigation we saw tiny green bugs on the plants, though not many.

We went to the other half of the field where the sedan grass was shoulder high, planted long before harvest for early feed. Here, too, the lower leaves had been damaged but not many bugs were found. We did see evidence where they had worked vigorously. We then recalled how tiny insects had been seen the previous days flying in great clouds through the field as The Farmer plowed. We surmised these insects moved in, ate their fill then moved on to another location.

It seemed almost impossible that a crop could be destroyed in two or three days and by such tiny bugs. It's not the size that matters; it's the determination that counts and these creatures are certainly determined.

DREW PEARSON

Hruska Backing The Drug Lobby

MIAMI — It's been a great week in Miami. The political atmosphere has been hot, the ocean cool, the bands exciting, the hotel lobbies jam-packed, the scramble for tickets frustrating.

When it's all over, however, the cold inescapable fact is that you, the taxpayer, will have to pay for it all. You'll have to pay for the orange-colored elephant dressed in a mimi skirt, the sky-writers that zoom over the ocean front, the red-white-and-blue decorations and all the other visible hoopla. In addition you'll have to pay for the invisible hoopla — the TV time, the organizers sent by the candidates to each state, the baby-sitters that watch each delegation, the travel back and forth, and many more state and congressional campaigns and finally the cost of the big showdown in November.

This may be a very killjoy look at politics. Certainly it's something the public doesn't know. But the fact is that the public will be paying for these campaign costs through continuing high taxes and continuing tax loopholes for the oil companies, the real estate lobbies and probably high-priced drugs. For tax loopholes for some mean higher taxes for you.

The system is completely bipartisan. And it isn't always the oil boys who pay and profit. There are others.

At Miami the big drug manufacturers seem to be among the generous backers; also there's an interesting question regarding the long row of millionaires' yachts where various state chairmen and key delegates are being entertained. How much will the yacht owners discreetly influence future legislation?

But regarding drugs, there are no question marks. With the government paying for hundreds of millions of dollars worth of drugs under the Medicare program, the National Association of Pharmaceutical Manufacturers has become one of the most powerful lobbies in politics.

The chief issue is the price of medicine. The drug lobby wants medicine purchased not by its generic names, which are dirt cheap, but by the highly advertised trademarked names which you see on television and which are considerably more expensive. The drugs are just the same. Only the name is different.

This has been one of the big debates in Congress and the chief champion of the drug lobby is Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb. Significantly Hruska has been appointed on Richard Nixon's select nine-man board of congressional advisers.

Eugene Beasley, head of the Eli Lilly Drug Company, is also on Nixon's economic committee, while two executives of Warner-Lambert, William Lasdon and Elmer Bobst, are very close to Nixon and put up $8,000 between them to finance two of Nixon's committees, "Congress 66" and the "Committee of the Loyal Opposition."

But whether it's drugs or oil or real estate, big labor or big farmers, the tab for the American political convention must be paid by someone. Also the ever-escalating cost of elections must be paid.

JAMES RESTON

Lincoln Theme Of 'Thinking, Acting Anew' Embraced By GOP But Not Yet Developed

MIAMI BEACH — The theme of the Republican convention is that Republicans, in Lincoln's phrase, "must think anew and act anew," but are they really doing it?

Lincoln's point was that "The dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present . . . We must rise with the occasion . . . We must disenthrall ourselves and then we shall save our country."

It is not easy to think, let alone act, to save a country from Miami Beach, with airplanes going past the opulent hotels advertising "topless girls" at the Tomboy Club and dog racing at the Biscayne, but the Republicans are trying to disenthrall themselves, anyway.

They are "thinking anew" in a limited way. They have clearly decided that public battles between their candidates on television is not very helpful to the Republican cause. That much they have learned from their disastrous campaign of 1964. Nobody is putting party ideology above party unity, not even Goldwater. In fact, Goldwater, Reagan, Nixon and Rockefeller have all accepted the objectives of a party platform that Humphrey or even McCarthy could accept.

And yet, something is clearly wrong here in Miami Beach. The Republicans are clearly "thinking anew and acting anew" about tactics, but not about the substance of policy. They are agreeing about popular objectives, but not about the cost of achieving them. They are appealing to the young, and the blacks, and the rest of the poor with a platform that is spectacularly progressive in its goals, but lamentably defective in how to achieve their goals.

Everything's "new" here in Miami Beach except the favorite candidate, Richard Nixon, who is the most familiar of them all. He has run a brilliant political campaign. He was a hawk on Vietnam but knows the country wants peace and therefore is now arguing for the "de-Americanization" of the war. He knows that Johnson and Humphrey are in deep trouble on the war and he is exploiting their troubles, even though he has been more of a hawk on Vietnam than Humphrey or even Johnson. And yet this creates a problem for the Republican party.

For the political crisis in America today is a crisis of belief. The Democrats are in trouble in this election, not only because things are not going well in Vietnam and in the American cities but because the people somehow feel they have been deceived. This was the real opportunity of the Republican convention here: to make the people believe again — in the Republican candidate and the Republican program — and so far the Republicans have not made it.

The Republicans here admire Richard Nixon but are not enthusiastic about him. They know they are a minority party and need the support of Democrats and independents to win, but they distrust Rockefeller and prefer to gamble on the unpopularity of Humphrey and Johnson.

It is quite a gamble. The Republicans know, as Lincoln said, that "The occasion is piled high with difficulty and we must rise with the occasion." They know that "as our case is new we must think anew and act anew . . . and disenthrall ourselves and save our country." But they have not really gone that far in Miami Beach.

They accept a "new" program — at least in their platform. Their goals for peace abroad and in the cities at home could not be more progressive, but they say nothing about taxation to pay for their goals, or accommodation with the Soviets to limit the arms race. In fact, they concentrate on more arms and devote only an ambiguous paragraph to disarmament, which is the key to financing the whole anti-poverty program at home.

This may be good politics in Miami Beach — provided the communists don't agree to a cease-fire between now and November — but the Republicans are not thinking or acting anew in the largest sense of American policy.

get FREE 1-year Library Research Service ($5.00 value)

When you pick up the first volume for the gift-price of only 49¢—your family will receive a FREE 1-year enrollment in the Student's Grade Improvement Program (SGIP)—the library answering service designed to help young people achieve top grades in the classroom. Others pay $5.00 a year for this service, you get it FREE this week with Volume 1.

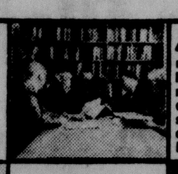

How FREE Library Service Works

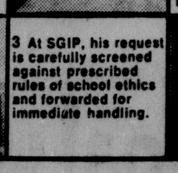

1 Your child has a baffling school problem. Perhaps it's a term paper assignment. Perhaps he's competing for a scholarship.

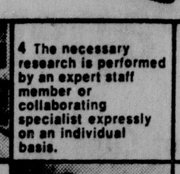

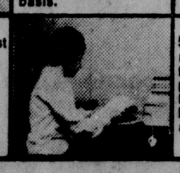

2 Whatever the subject, he mails the problem to SGIP. He knows that an expert will provide him with the proper guidance.

3 At SGIP, his request is carefully screened against prescribed rules of school ethics and forwarded for immediate handling.

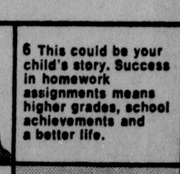

4 The necessary research is performed by an expert staff member or collaborating specialist expressly on an individual basis.

5 His information is received in portfolio form and your child proceeds to complete his assignment with knowledge and authority.

6 This could be your child's story. Success in homework assignments means higher grades, school achievements and a better life.

Newest 1968 edition on sale tomorrow. Volume-a-week-plan saves you $59.71!

Of the five best selling encyclopedias published for the special needs of young people up to the age 17, only the Illustrated World Encyclopedia has seceded from the door-to-door field. While the other four are still selling from $149.50 to $199.50, you can now buy the Illustrated World Encyclopedia at a price reduction that will shock your imagination. Here are the facts: this is not an abridged cheapened version of the original work. Not a comma, not an entry has been omitted. You get the newest 1968 edition, the full and complete work, 21 fine quality unabridged volumes, (including the index and study guide) printed on costly non-glare paper with extra color on nearly every page. The binding is two-tone in a hard-bound library design, the edition is one of the most up-to-date in America today, suitably correlated to the curricula of schools in the junior grades through high school. Come in today, pick up volume 1 at the gift-price of only 49¢. After satisfying your curiosity and authenticating the value, buy volumes 2-21 (a volume-a-week) for only $1.99 a volume. Platte County District Plan Disapproved

The State Committee for the Reorganization of School Districts reported Wednesday it has disapproved an election plan to create a new Class VI high school district in Platte County.

A Class VI district is a high school district embracing two or more grade school districts.

In the Platte County case, a Class VI district known as District 2-R, offering instruction from grades 9 through 12 is proposed.

The district would be superimposed over Class I (elementary) School Districts 2, 9, 10, 11, 12, 17, 20, 25, 44, 46, 80 and 84.

Also disapproved was a Cherry County petition plan to reorganize Districts 34, 74, 61 and 55.

Four petition plans were approved and three others received qualified approval at the Tuesday meeting.

Petition plans approved, by county:

Cedar County — detach a portion of Hartington District 8 and attach the territory to Wynot District 101.

Valley County — detach a portion of Class 8 District 31 and attach the territory to Ord District. 5.

Seward County — dissolve Class I District 58 and attach portions variously to Seward District 9, Centennial District 67-R, and Milford District 5.

Platte County — detach a portion of Class I District 9 and attach the territory to Columbus District No. 1.

Petition plans given qualified approval:

Holt County — detach a portion of Class I District 231 and attach to Class I District 210.

Seward-York-Butler Counties — dissolve Class I District 43 of Seward County and attach portions variously to Seward District 9, Centennial District 67-R of Seward County, Gresham District 54 in York County, and Class I District 1-R in Butler County.

Butler County — dissolve Class I District 11 and attach portions to Class I District 3-R and David City District 56.

225 Are Attending NSEA Sessions

Chadron (AP) — Two hundred twenty-five delegates, representing 128 of the state's 180 local units of the Nebraska State Education Association, gathered here for a two-day leadership conference.

NSEA president Jerry Neely of Norfolk said a drive will be continued to retain the record 18,000 membership reached for the first time this year.

Neely said goals of the organization during 1969 will be directed toward legislation. He said the organization made considerable gains during the 1967 legislature.

Tire Care Important

Akron, Ohio (UPI) — Driver care, tread design and the chemicals used in the rubber are more important to the tread life of a tire than the thickness of the tread, tire engineers of The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company report.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

We went putt-putting up the River Thames between grassy green banks and hidden castles.

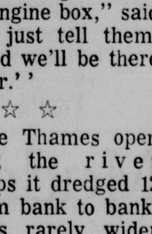

"The beautiful part about these cruisers on the river is you don't have to be a sailor," said Mr. Al Wagstaff. "It's as easy as running a golf cart."

We were cruising at the leisurely and legal 8-miles-per-hour allowed by the Thames Conservance. The river authority takes over where the Port of London stops at Teddington.

At this point the first river weir stops the tidal action. The Thames rises through controlled reaches between locks and weirs, 136 miles to the source in the Cotswold hills.

A cabin cruiser sleeping six costs $125 a week. (You can't sleep in London that cheap.)

It has a small galley. Pots and pans, knives and forks and dishes.

You cruise by day, tieing up at night wherever you like. During the day, you can shop at small villages, dining aboard on Scottish beef, English trout and fresh watercress picked from tributary streams.

☆ ☆ ☆

Said Wagstaff: "You push this lever to go ahead. You pull it back to go in reverse.

"This lever feeds the gas. You turn it on with this key — like a car. It steers with the wheel, just like a car.

"We give the people a half hour instruction and take them through the first lock. By the time they've gone through two more locks by themselves they're experts.

"If anything should go wrong, we have a jeep breakdown service everywhere within a half hour. I don't even give them a key to the engine box," said Wagstaff. "I just tell them, 'Phone us, and we'll be there in half an hour.'"

☆ ☆ ☆

To keep the Thames open for cruising, the river authority keeps it dredged 12 feet deep from bank to bank. (The river is rarely wider than 50 yards.)

The early builders on the river put their houses far back to avoid floods. Since the river control, no new building is allowed. And you cruise mile after mile between wooded and grassy banks with scarcely a house in sight.

It was a weekend. The banked edges of the river had a few boys with long fishing poles. There was a scattter of river traffic. Long thin canal boats converted to cabin cruising. Slipper boats — they leave no wake. Little cockleshells with a one horsepower outboard.

"There's nothing like simply mucking about in small boats," as it says in "The Wind in the Willows!"

☆ ☆ ☆

Wagstaff has four boats. He had all of them chartered all summer, mostly to Americans. (Wagstaff is an American who's lived here many years, and I knew him in the airline business.)

"The big rains nearly wiped us out for awhile. You can't send people out when you get a big rain and a fast current."

I asked him what part of the river was best. He said the reach near Cliveden woods where the pre-war "Cliveden Set" hung out.

"But what gets them is that cottage there," he said. It was a rundown place now. "That's where Christine Keeler spent her weekends." Christine was the girl in the Profumo scandal — a charter girl on the Thames.

☆ ☆ ☆

We pulled into the grass bank by Cookham Village. It's a tiny place of winding lanes and a fine old oak-beamed pub — The Bel and The Dragon.

You enter the village through the yard of the church, built 850 years ago, where I read on the stone:

"Here Lyeth Ye Body of Ye Most Vertuous
And Beautyfull Margret
"She was wise as a Serpent and harmless as a Dove Ye World was not Worthy of Her"

Wagstaff said: "We give them Cookham Village as the first night's stop. After they've walked through the churchyard and had dinner at the pub, you couldn't drive them off the river if you tried."

Evening Party Was Bridal Courtesy

An informal patio party Tuesday evening held at the home of Mrs. Carl Norden, III, on Lakeshore Dr., was also a prenuptial courtesy for a bride-to-be of late summer.

Miss Gay Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned C. Miller, was the honored guest, and co-hostesses with Mrs. Norden were Miss LaRue Jones, Mrs. Roger Greer and Mrs. William Davis.

The wedding of Miss Miller and Lt. Marvin Pesek, who recently returned from duty with the Army in Vietnam, will take place Saturday, Aug. 24.

IN Suburbia

Today's news from Suburbia is full of the usual August houseguests and vacations, but before we talk about those summer occurrences let us tell you about a new actor on the suburban scene.

As you well know all the world's a stage, but for Shaun Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Price of Park Manor, the stage is in the Maude Rousseau School Auditorium and the play is "No Dogs Allowed." Eight-year-old Master Price performs in this Community Playhouse production August 7 and 8, in both afternoon and evening performances.

Besides coaching their son with his lines, the Prices also entertained a houseguest this past weekend. Miss Lori Juracek of Omaha visited with Mr. and Mrs. Price's daughter, Miss Marilyn-Rae Price.

Well, there are other centers of activity in town so let's move on to Country Club Terrace where again the news is of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Lohrberg have been entertaining a visitor from San Diego, Calif. Mrs. Muriel Chipman is the houseguest of her son Dennis Chipman, but spent many hours reminiscing about the past with her friend, Mrs. Lohrberg.

Late in the month, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lantry and their ten-month-old son, Bruce, will accompany a group of families from First Plymouth Congregational Church to Colorado. The Eastborough residents and the others in the group will spend a week at the Lasorat Family Ranch in Colorado Springs.

The News Around Town

MISS CONSTANCE CHUDOMELKA

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Constance Marie Chudomelka of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Chudomelka of Scribner, to Paul W. Peiper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Peiper of Dodge, is announced this morning by the bride-elect's parents.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Nov. 9.

Miss Chudomelka is a former coed at the University of Nebraska and now is careering in Lincoln.

Mr. Peiper also has attended the University of Nebraska.

Prenuptial Parties

Miss Margaret Eickmeier and her fiance, Barry Thomson, whose wedding will take place Sunday, Aug. 11, will be honored on Saturday evening when Mr. Thomson's mother, Mrs. Reid Thomson, will entertain the members of the family and bridal party following the wedding rehearsal.

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Eickmeier, and her fiance also shared honors last Sunday evening at a family picnic held at the Palmyra Park. A grocery and pantry shower was presented the honored couple.

Included among recent courtesies for the soon-to-be bride was the miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. Russell Parrott was hostess at her home on Wednesday, July 24. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Parrott were Mrs. Earl England and Mrs. Lawrence Frost.

Also entertaining for Miss Eickmeier recently were Mrs. Richard Schrader and her daughter, Miss Anne Schrader, who were hostesses to former classmates of the bride-elect at a personal shower held at their home, Thursday, July 18.

Wedding Planned

For her marriage to Robert Bruce Keim of Syracuse, which will take place Saturday afternoon, Aug. 10, at the First Christian Church in Lincoln, Miss Barbara Ann Simmons has named her sister, Miss Linda Simmons of Dover, Del., as her maid of honor.

Miss Christine Luhe of Denver, will be the bridesmaid, and bridesmatron will be Mrs. Robert Langford, Omaha.

Serving as best man will be David Keim of Syracuse, and the groomsmen will be Bruce McKeag, Grand Isalnd, and Robert Trotter, Omaha. Seating the guests will be the bride-elect's brother, Jim Simmons, La Grange, Ill.; Robert Langford, Omaha; Dan Looker and John Phillips.

Mr. Keim's brother, John Keim, will light the chancel candles for the 3:30 o'clock ceremony.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Simmons of La Grange, Ill., the bride elect is a June graduate of the University of Nebraska, from which Mr. Keim, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Keim of Syracuse, also received his degree.

The bride-to-be was presented a personal shower recently at a courtesy for which Mrs. Adna Dobson and Mrs. Dwight Perkins were hostesses at the Lincoln Country Club.

Also honoring the bride-elect recently was Miss Christine Luhe of Denver, who was a luncheon hostess at the University Club. The guests, who included Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sisters and classmates of the honoree, presented Miss Simmons with a pottery shower.

We haven't a minute to waste in idle chatter this ayem — We have news — about parties, about guests —about parties for guests — about farewell courtesies — about a party attended by only Art Association members who visited the Biennale in Venice — and we have a few words about homecomers—

* * *

We'll begin with Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Campbell of Loughborough, England, who arrive next Tuesday to spend a few days as the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Hiram Hilton. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and Dr. and Mrs. Hilton have mutual friends — but not in Lincoln Then, too, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell met Miss Pam Hilton a year ago when she was attending Loughborough University —but Miss Hilton will not be on hand to welcome the visitors — She is studying abroad this summer.

Complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, Dr. and Mrs. Hilton will be host and hostess at a canape party on Thursday, Aug. 15, at their home.

* * *

This week, however, is not without its festive events — On Friday evening, for example, Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor Greer will be host and hostess at their home when they entertain at a canape party and supper to say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. James Evinger who soon will leave to reside in Colorado Springs, Colo., — and to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pegler, Jr., to the neighborhood.

* * *

And we can't overlook Tuesday evening of this week — That was the evening that Mr. and Mrs. John Hoppe and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynie were hosts and hostesses at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hoppe. The party, to which 24 couples were invited, was a surprise birthday celebration for Dr. G. Robert Ross.

* * *

Nor can we pass lightly over Wednesday. Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Paul Amen was a tea hostess at her home when she paid courtesy to her daughter, Miss Karen Sue Amen — a careerist in New York — who is spending some time as the guest of her parents.

* * *

Last night was a fun night, too — at least for those members of the Nebraska Art Association who attended the Biennale in Venice earlier this season. Held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis D. Kimball, the informal buffet honored Reuben Nakian of Stamford, Conn., who needs no introduction in the world of sculpture. Mr. Nakian is in Lincoln to work with Educational Television, and his stay will be brief. He will return to Lincoln next spring when the Nebraska Art Association presents a particularly interesting show — the Sheldon Memorial Gallery exhibit at the Biennale.

* * *

Those homecomers we mentioned are Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. White who returned on Monday from Colorado Springs and the Broadmoor Hotel where Mr. White participated in the Invitational Golf Tournament.

* * *

Some of our 'homegoers' are Mr. and Mrs. Stan Wilson, their son, John, and daughter, Ann, who have returned to Peoria, Ill., after a visit in Lincoln with Mr. Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Wilson, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Roper.

Abby: ask him to tell psychiatrist

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good man in many ways, but he has one terrible fault which I think is inexcusable. He "tells all" (and I do mean ALL) to his men friends.

I feel that we have no intimate husband-wife secrets like other married couples. My husband tells guys he hasn't even known very long everything that goes on between us. I know he has because he's told me so.

Knowing that all his men friends know all those intimate things about me, I can't face them.

What is the matter with a man who acts like this? I have grown cold toward him, and we've only been married 2 years. Do you blame me?

COLD WIFE

DEAR COLD: Either your husband is very immature or he thinks he's invented something. Your talkative husband is "telling all" to the wrong people. If he can't keep his mouth shut, he should lie down on a couch, and tell it to a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I am a recent divorcee, and as such, most men take me for an "easy mark." They all ask the same question, "What do you have to lose?"

I am in my late thirties, and I'm certainly not a child. But what is a good answer for these eager beavers? The word "NO" doesn't seem to mean anything to them. They want to know WHY! Please give me a good answer.

INDIANA READER

DEAR READER: Just say, "NO — that't not my sty'e." . . . and don't engage in a debate with any of these clowns or you're sunk.

DEAR ABBY: Ben and I have been happily married for 4 years (no children yet) and I wouldn't think of being unfalthful. He says he trusts me, and he isn't the least bit jealous.

Well, the employees at my office recently got up a bowling team, and since I am a pretty good bowler, I joined. The other married bowlers always come alone and go home alone, and their spouses never come to "watch" them.

Ben and I each drive our own cars, but on my bowling night, Ben drives me to work. I go to the bowling alley with a co-worker, then Ben calls for me at the alley. He always comes so early that it's right at the beginning of the game, so he "waits" for me. While he waits, he watches every move I make. This affects my game and I go to pieces and can't bowl. Once Ben had car trouble and didn't get there until after the game, and that was the only time I bowled my usual game, and our team won.

I can't tell Ben not to come so early or he'll think I'm hiding something. Yet when he watches me bowl I am so bad the team suffers. Please, please help me.

BOWLING BLUES

DEAR BLUES: Don't pussyfoot around. Tell Ben that you cannot bowl your best when he is watching you, so to please do you, and the team, a favor and come AFTER the game.

DEAR ABBY: There is a "swinger" who moved into our apartment building recently. She lives on our floor, and ever since she has moved in, my husband wants to empty the trash all the time.

She's big, blonde, and buxom, and I've never seen her in anything but a Japanese kimono.

I used to BEG my husband to take out the garbage, now he goes around the house looking for waste paper baskets to take to the incinerator room.

When he happens to see this lady in the hall, he stands around talking to her and getting his eyes full for 15 or 20 minutes. Should I worry?

THE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Not as long as he's in the hall.

Confidential to S.S.: In selecting a career for yourself, choose a tough one. That way you won't have so much competition.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90060 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♥

Opening lead — ace of clubs.

The opening lead is very often the most critical play of a hand. In the long run, most good players will lose more tricks on the opening lead than on the next twelve tricks combined. The reason is not hard to find — it is simply much easier to defend correctly after you see 26 cards than it is when you see only the 13 cards in front of you before dummy comes down.

The best guide to the opening lead usually comes from the bidding. In an effort to arrive at their best contract, declarer and his partner frequently exchange extremely revealing information about their respective hands which the defenders are then free to turn to their own advantage.

Take this case where South gets to four hearts on the sequence shown.

In considering his opening lead, West should reason from the bidding that North-South have at least eight clubs between them (probably divided 3-5 or 4-4, possibly 4-5).

This perfectly valid assumption leads to the inevitable conclusion that East has at most one club and can ruff the second round of the suit.

Accordingly, West starts out with the ace of clubs and, after East follows suit, continues with his highest club — the ten — as a signal for East to return the higher suit (as between spades and diamonds) after he ruffs the club at trick two.

Without this suit-directing play of the ten, East would have a difficult guess about which suit to return at trick three. But thanks to the ruffing convention, East automatically leads back a spade after ruffing the club.

West wins with the ace, returns a third club, ruffed by East, and the outcome is that South loses the first four tricks to go down one.

Without the ace of clubs lead, declarer would have no trouble making the contract.

Betrothal

Announcement is being made by Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Webb of the betrothal of their daughter, Patricia Carol, to Harry Vernon Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peterson.

The wedding will take place Oct. 1, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Sheridan Lutheran Church.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Activity Involvement Cure For Depression

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "I'm just one of millions of older widows, and while my health is good I often find loneliness and depression more than I can bear. Years ago Tom Brenaman had a radio broadcast from a breakfast club in Hollywood where several hundred older people got together each morning and had wonderful entertainment. Wouldn't something like that be popular today?"

A. — It probably would, and let's hope someone picks up the suggestion. However, entertainment itself is not a very effective cure for loneliness and depression. To shake these emotional shadows a person must become actively engaged in new interests and service for others. As your health is good you should try and find a job that will occupy your time. Volunteer your services at local hospitals and nursing homes. Become a friendly visitor. Anyone who sits at home alone indulging in self-pity is sure to become sad and depressed.

Q. — "Do you think people are generally happier in mild sunny climates than they are in the North? We live in upper Minnesota where we're up to our ears in snow from Thanksgiving till April, and are thinking of retiring to Florida or Arizona."

A.—It depends on the source of your happiness. If your current routines, friends, and families provide you with your widest smiles you'll probably be wise in staying put. But if you make friends easily, love gardening, are fond of outdoor sports and revel in the caress of warm breezes and sparkling sunshine you'll probably be happier in a milder clime.

Q.—"Last year you wrote that anyone who could type 40 words a minute could find work. So I spent $200 on a business course and another $250 to buy an electric typewriter. I've finally gotten my speed up to 40 words a minute but no one has offered me a job yet."

A.—Don't just sit there. Start calling on firms and employment offices. Let them know you are neat, personable and the possessor of skill in operating a typewriter. Employment officials in cities everywhere will tell you typing is one of the most readily marketed skills a person past 40 can have.

☆ ☆ ☆

Confidential to Mr. and Mrs. T.Y. of Cincinnati: "Opened by mistake" applies more to mouths than letters. If you want to resume good terms with your son show a little genuine contrition for the harsh words you spoke about his business ability and his choice of a wife.

Natives Opening Savings Accounts In New Guinea

Port Moresby, New Guinea (AP) — Native Papuans and New Guineans are learning there are more ways of saving money than burying 10-cent coins.

Latest statistics show they operated 257,000 savings bank accounts with a credit balance of 11,095,000 Australian dollars ($12,426,000) on June 30, 1967. This compared with 50,000 accounts with a total balance of 2,134,000 Australian dollars ($2,390,000) 10 years earlier.

The native people's traditional method of saving since the white man came here has been to bury shillings, and more recently 10-cent coins (worth 11 U.S. cents) since the switch to decimal currency.

Diplomats Exchanged

Katmandu, Nepal (AP) — Nepal and Algeria have decided to exchange diplomatic representation at ambassadorial level, the foreign ministry announced here. Algeria is the 44th state with which this Himalayan kingdom is setting up diplomatic relations.

Hotel Firm Talking About Selling Chain

. . . CORNHUSKER IN GROUP

Omaha — Edward Schimmel confirmed Wednesday that the Gold Bond Stamp Co., through its Radisson Management Corp. is "one of a number of firms" with whom the Schimmel Hotels Corp. is negotiating a sale of the hotels.

The Schimmel hotels include the Cornhusker in Lincoln, the Blackstone in Omaha and the Lassen in Wichita, Kan.

Duane Andrews, public relations director of Gold Bond, said the negotiations have not reached the "materializing' stage.

Talks Underway

Informed of the statement by Gold Bond, Edward Schimmel conceded that negotiations are underway.

Bennett Martin Sr., Lincoln investor vacationing in Brainerd, Minn., said that he and a group of local investors have also been having conversations with the Schimmels over the past six months regarding purchase of the Cornhusker Hotel.

Earlier Wednesday, A. Q. Schimmel of Lincoln had denied both reports, saying that there was "absolutely no basis for rumors'' of negotiations.

Only One Hotel

At the present time, Gold Bond has only one hotel, the Radisson, in downtown Minneapolis; however, a major expansion program is now underway, according to Andrews.

The firm is constructing a 14-story merchandise mart across from the Radisson, two hotels in Duluth and Bloomington, a suburb of Minneapolis, and a motor hotel in Plymouth, the Minneapolis suburb in which Gold Bond is located.

The Schimmel family hotel firm owns all of the block on which the Cornhusker stands with the exception of a 100 by 142 lot owned by Mr. and Mrs. Martin, on which the Lafayette Apartment stands.

City Youth Center Proposal Gets 'Gratifying' Responses

A Lincoln youth center, proposed by Fr. Edward C. Tuchek, director of the Catholic Social Service Bureau, in a memo to city, youth and religious leaders, has so far met with "gratifying" responses, according to the director.

Fr. Tuchek said that he had received replies from several persons, including Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, Lincoln Public School Superintendent John Prasch, a juvenile judge, two ministers and many young people.

According to Fr. Tuckek, the mayor indicated that he would refer the proposal to the City Recreation Department, to which Fr. Tuchek had also sent a memo.

The memo suggested that the city or some responsible civic, fraternal or religious organization purchase or lease property, such as Town and Country or The Black Coach, for the center.

Teen-agers from 15 through 20, without discrimination would be able to become members and to use the center daily for indoor recreation, such as dancing, record playing, hobbies, billiards, youth discussions and other activities. He also suggested a dining area and a "coketail" lounge.

An executive board of five to 10 members from the sponsoring organization and a junior board composed of two members of the Student Council from each Lincoln high school plus a manager hired by the executive board would be responsible for management, according to Fr. Tuchek's plan.

Finances would be handled through membership dues, concessions, donations and subsidy of the sponsoring organization.

Fr. Tuchek said that he had not yet received a sign from any local organization that they would be willing to finance such a project.

Dobson Brothers Offers Apparent Low Bid To City

Dobson Brothers Construction Co. was the apparent low bidder on three of four bids submitted to the city of Lincoln for resurfacing and paving projects.

Pioneer Paving Co. submitted the apparent low bid on the fourth project.

The projects and bids submitted were:

—Resurfacing 17th from the north line of R St. to the north line of Sec. 24, township 10, Range 6, Dobson Brothers, $32,885, Pioneer Paving, $33,264.

—Resurfacing 16th from the north line of R St. to the west line of 17th, Pioneer Paving, $37,457, Dobson Brothers, $37,865.

—Repaving in the Sunset Acres first addition, Dobson Brothers, $13,814, Pioneer Paving $13,973.

—Paving Colfax Ave., 40th to the west line of Sunset Acres first addition, Dobson Brothers, $8,865, Pioneer Paving, $9,086.

Rafferty Pleaded With Nebraska's Delegates

. . . ON BEHALF OF REAGAN

Miami Beach — Before the voting began Wednesday, California senatorial nominee Max Rafferty pleaded with Nebraska's Nixon delegation to transfer its allegiance to Gov. Ronald Reagan if national convention voting moved beyond two ballots.

"You wouldn't want to go the other way," Rafferty said.

The other way — in the event of a convention deadlock denying Richard Nixon the presidential nomination — would be Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.

Reagan quite obviously was Nebraska's second choice for the nomination.

Legal Restrictions

Fifteen of Nebraska's delegates were legally bound to support Nixon for two ballots, but would be free to move elsewhere if a third ballot was necessary.

"I understand your situation," Rafferty told an afternoon caucus of the Nebraska delegation just two hours before the national convention entered its climatic night.

"But this will be no first ballot affair, and it is very questionable that there will be a second ballot decision. It's not tied up."

Rafferty, superintendent of public instruction for California and conquerer of Sen. Thomas Kuchel in that state's June primary election, said California Republicans will be "happy and proud" to vote for Nixon if he is the convention nominee.

"And I'll campaign for him and be proud to do it," he said.

But, Rafferty said, "we can guarantee you victory (in November) with Governor Reagan. He does not know how to lose."

Reagan 'Loved'

Californians, Rafferty said, "love our governor . . . and we want to share him with the nation."

Reagan, he noted, "almost singlehandedly" revitalized California's Republican Party, ending years of Democratic domination in the statehouse.

The majority of America's voters are now women, he pointed out.

"And who would sweep the women's vote like a broom?" Rafferty asked. When Reagan speaks, he said, women's faces "turn to him as sunflowers follow the sun."

'A Man's Man'

Reagan is also "a man's man," Rafferty suggested, a rancher, a horseman and "a fighter."

In phrasing which echoed Barry Goldwater's 1964 presidential campaign, Rafferty suggested that "in your hearts you know this is right."

After the second ballot, Rafferty said, "the chips are down . . . and you couldn't vote for a better all-around American than Reagan."

With his nomination will come general election victory, Rafferty insisted.

"You couldn't lose with him if you tried," he declared.

A number of Nebraska delegates followed their caucus session with a reception meeting with evangelist Billy Graham at the nearby Sea Gull Hotel. Invitations to the reception were sent to all Nebraska delegates by Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas.

Rockefeller Fan Offers Alternative

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Among the campaign buttons showing up at the climactic Republican National Convention Wednesday night was one boosting Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a Democrat.

A man quietly circulated through the hall offering the Humphrey buttons and saying:

"If Rockefeller loses, put this on."

Crash Helmets Needed

Hamilton, Bermuda (AP) — Bermuda is a place where you can't rent a car to drive yourself but you can rent a motorbike — and hundreds of tourists do every week. Because of several deaths, the legislature will consider a plan to make all riders wear crash helmets.

How many people get hurt when a car is stolen?

More than you think.
The thief gets hurt.
Very likely he's a teen-age kid who's never been in serious trouble before.
His parents get hurt.
A police record isn't much to be proud of.
Other people can get hurt, too.
Stolen cars are involved in 200 times more accidents.
Take your keys every time you leave your car. That way, nobody gets hurt.

Don't help a boy go wrong. When you leave your car, take your keys.

Democrats Attempt To Unite Factions

© New York Times Service

New York — A committee of Democratic office-holders that was formed wast weekend to promote a "Democratic" convention represents a quiet attempt to unite Kennedy and McCarthy supporters against Vice President Humphrey and the administration's Vietnam policy.

The group's steering committee, headed by Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, includes Senator Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, Governors Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Philip H. Hoff of Vermont, and Jesse H. Unruh, speaker of the California Assembly. It held its first meeting in Chicago on Sunday.

All the members were supporters of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, but they have had informal contacts with a number of delegates and supporters of Sen. Eugene J McCarthy. Future meetings may include pro-McCarthy representatives.

Seeek Cooperation

Kennedy and McCarthy supporters are generally so suspicious of each other that cooperaation between them has been virtually impossible.

The new effort springs from the realization by some people on both sides that at least limited cooperation is necessary if there is to be any chance of stopping Vice President Humphrey and revising the party's stand on Vietnam.

The new group, called the Committee for a Democratic Convention, refuses to discuss potential candidates on the ground that it would only collapse into internal squabbling. For the time being, it is concentrating on encouraging favorite sons to hold fast and convincing delegates that Humphrey's nomination "is not inevitable," as one source put it.

Most of the committee members do not particularly like Sen. McCarthy, but they are said to feel that he is the most likely nominee if the Vice President fails to win. Unruh, for example, is even considering an endorsement of Senator McCarthy.

Third Candidate

However, if the senators drive falters, the committee could well blossom into a McGovern for president organization. The South Dakota senator will be placed in nomination as a favorite son and has made it clear that he is interested in the nomination if a deadlock develops.

Few members of the committee, Sen. McGovern included, feel there is a very good chance of stopping Humphrey. But they are dedicated to pushing a platform plank that would disassociate the party from the Vietnam policies of the Johnson administration.

Sen. McGovern and the steering committee will probably testify before the platform committee when it holds open hearings the week before the convention opens in Chicago on Aug. 26.

Some observers think Humphrey would be happy to run on an antiwar plank. But they believe that President Johnson will insist on a platform that supports his policies.

One member said the committee would get involved in fights over delegates' credentials and the convention rules. It is also expected to object to some of the unusual precautions that are expected to be taken to keep non-delegates off the convention floor and make the proceedings easier to manage.

"There is a general feeling that this is a convention that Lyndon Johnson should not be running," said one former backer of Sen. Kennedy. "The future of the party is at stake and there is a growing feeling that the President wants to control everything."

McCarthy: Democrats Have To Offer Choice

Columbus, Ohio (UPI) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy told a statehouse rally of 4,000 persons Wednesday the "burden" of giving the people their choice for president had fallen to the democratic party. He said he was offering that choice.

McCarthy, who came to woo votes among Ohio's 126 delegates to the Democratic National Convention, said he felt certain the Republicans would nominate former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president.

He said polls indicate Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York leads Nixon in popular support, and polls in Ohio show McCarthy leading his opponent for the Democratic nomination, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

"The people have indicated they want to make a choice this year," McCarthy said. "So I am offering a choice.

"Upon the Democrats falls the burden of giving the people what they want. They want to have a say in what's going on."

McCarthy added a feather to his cap when Georgia state Rep. Julian Bond, a Negro, introduced the Minnesota Senator at the rally. A supporter of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Bond reportedly had been close to endorsing Humphrey.

After the rally, McCarthy held a private luncheon with the Ohio delegates, pledged to support Sen. Stephen Young as a favorite son.

The nation's sixth largest Democratic delegation was scheduled to caucus next Monday, when it would discuss the candidates for the presidential nomination. A similar meeting had been cancelled after the assassination of Kennedy, the only other candidate that met with the delegation.

It was understood that McCarthy's candidacy had attracted about 26 votes in the Ohio delegation. He won three votes in the May 7 primary.

Humphrey's strength in the delegation was estimated at about 65 votes, with the remaining 24 votes listed as uncommitted to a national candidate.

Young, Ohio's junior senator, has indicated he favors McCarthy but it was not known how much of the delegation he could carry with him at the convention.

The favorite son vice presidential candidate, Frazier Reams Jr. of Toledo, is chairman of Humphrey's Ohio campaign. Reams was the party's unsuccessful 1966 gubernatorial candidate.

State Chairman Eugene O'Grady has attempted to hold the delegation together behind Young's favorite son candidacy, claiming an uncommitted delegation has more power at the convention.

McCarthy said in a taped television interview the Republican party's platform "didn't mean much." He said he hoped the Democratic plank on Vietnam would be a stronger one.

In a speech prepared for delivery to a convention of the International Typographical Union, he called on labor to join in a "co-ordinated effort to assure honorable work to every American who is willing and able."

"It is time to call on the know-how and the experience of the labor movement to make our job training effective," he said.

McCarthy said the problems of American society stem from the "existence of poor people, even starving people, in the midst of affluence" and "discrimination and despair in our gettos.

Man Shoots Wife's Family, Then Self

Hollywood, Calif. (AP) — Fired from his job, an estranged husbande burst into his father-in-law's elaborate home Wednesday and fatally shot him and three members of his family, then killed himself, detectives said.

The mass slayings, investigators said, evidently climaxed an intra-family love triangle involving two young sisters, one of them his wife.

Police said Fred Chegwin, 31, fired his .32-caliber revolver at least 16 times, killing his wife, Myrna, 24; his father-in-law, Phillip Weinstein, 46, for whose firm Chegwin worked; his mother-in law, Rosemary Weinstein, 38, and sister-in-law, Debbie, 19. He then shot himself twice in the chest, police said.

Weinstein's 3-year-old son, Jason Scott, was found by police cowering under a bed, near where his mother's body lay. Jason is Weinstein's son by his second marriage; the slain daughters were by a previous marriage. An uncle, Robert Weinstein, took the boy from the scene.

A maid, Mercedes Rameric, told police she heard a knock at the door at 8:30 a.m. and then heard the shots. She said she ran into Mrs. Weinstein's bedroom, who told her to call police.

When she returned to the bedroom, Mrs. Weinstein was dead. Miss Rameric then fled to a neighbor's house.

Police found Mrs. Weinstein's body in a front bedroom of the $100,000 home. They found the others in a rear bedroom, a revolver lying near Chegwin's left hand.

Earlier in the day Chegwin had been informed by his father-in-law's partner at the headwear manufacturing firm of Metz of California, in suburban Gardena, that he had been fired, police said.

Police Lt. William M. West Jr., said the partner, Al Goodman, told officers that Weinstein had been angered by Chegwin's attentions toward Debbie, his sister-in-law.

But West said pending further investigation the motive of the shoting would be listed as unknown.

U.S. Navy Will Inactivate Ships, Planes

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon announced Wednesday the Navy will inactivate 50 ships and a naval air squadron with approximately 100 planes to begin meeting spending cuts ordered by Congress for fiscal 1969.

The Defense Department estimated the action will save $118 million in the fiscal year which share of the $6 billion expenditure began July 1. The department's reduction is expected to be $3 billion.

Most of the inactivated ships are described as small, combat vessels, auxiliaries and amphibious ships built in World War II but they also include the atomic submarine Triton, a guided missile light cruiser and an antisubmarine warfare support carrier, both built in World War II.

The 100 planes are antisubmarine warfare aircraft.

One impact of Wednesday's action will be a 3,500-man drop in the Navy's total strength of 764,572.

In addition nearly 1,000 officers and almost 12,000 enlisted personnel will be rotated to other assignments, the Pentagon said.

"Fleet strength in support of military operations in Vietnam will not be reduced by these actions," said a department announcement.

It marked the second major spending reduction undertaken by the Pentagon to help meet expenditure cuts demanded by Congress in exchange for approving President Johnson's 10% surtax. To get the tax bill through congress, the President agreed to slash federal spending by $6 billion.

Movie Censor Bans Violence?

© New York Times Service

Lusaka, Zambia — The Zambian film censorship board imposed a last-minute ban on the showing of the American gangster movie "The St. Valentine's Day Massacre," ruling that it presented scenes of gross violence.

"The Dillinger Story" was shown instead.

Unemployment Drops For July

Washington (UPI) — The labor department said Wednesday that unemployment dropped slightly in July after a spurt in June due to a big influx of youths into the labor market after the close of school.

July unemployment was 3.2 million persons, or about 3.7 per cent of the work force, the Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

This was 400,000 below the June jobless total, which was 3.8 per cent of the eligible workers in the nation.

Angry Young Negroes Rampage In Miami; Random Shots Fired

Miami,Fla. (AP) — Angered by the appearance of police at a black rally, groups of young Negroes went on a rampage of bottle and rock throwing, looting and burning Wednesday night in a Negro business area.

Miami Police Lt. Jay Golden said "some shots are being fired indiscriminately, mainly at windows, but no one has been injured. There has been no police fire."

The trouble broke out in an area of Miami, some 10 miles across Biscayne Bay from Miami Beach where the Republican National Convention was in session.

Appeal Broadcast

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, in the audience at the convention, heard of the trouble and broadcast an appeal to "all my brothers and sisters not to turn to violence."

Florida Gov. Claudee Kirk, also at the convenetion, went immediately to Miami and ordered 500 National Guardsmen to a standby basis.

A leader of the black rally said Negroes became incensed when police began massing for no apparent reason at the site of the rally in northwest Miami.

'Black Culture'

"We were trying to give our people some of their black culture," said Bob Johnson, a youth who said he was a nonviolent black nationalist.

"The people we are trying to reach, they can't sit down in peaceful assembly without being harassed," he said. "If they don't stop treating our people like dogs and animals, they're going to act like dogs and animals after nightfall."

The trouble was the first major racial violence to occur in Miami and came about eight months after Police Chief Walter Headley announced a "get tough" policy on crime that included patrols on which officers were armed with shotguns and dogs.

Photographer Beaten

Three people were hit by a barrage of rocks and concrete chunks. A Miami Herald photographer was "severely beaten," according to police.

Base Ammo Area Improvements Purchase Accord Reached

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Agreements have been reached for the Airport Authority to purchase federal government improvements on a section of land at the former Air Force Base that had been used as an ammunition area, it was announced Wednesday.

Executive director Rolland Harr reported that purchase agreements had been negotiated as the Airport Authority formally received title to some 80 buildings on 400 acres of land used by the Job Corps.

The federal government cancelled its 25-year lease on the city-owned 400-acre parcel Monday, and Wednesday morning the Airport Authority paid the General Services Administration $125,000 for the improvements on the property.

Seeks Improvements

Harr said that the authority had agreed to pay the federal government $172,000 for improvements on the ammunition area.

However, the sale is being held up by lack of approval in Washington, he noted.

The ammunition area is considered vital, Harr said, due to the height of the terrain in maintaining clear zones.

Airport Authority acquisition of the ammunition area will complete efforts to get all of the city-owned land leased to the government for the former Air Force Base and later the Job Corps reverted back to the city for its use.

The Housing Authority is negotiating with federal officials for the Air Base housing.

Authority chairman Joseph Hampton said that now the group will be even more heavily involved in developing the airport and use of the excess property.

Four or five prospects are interested in renting some of the buildings, Harr indicated, although he said he did not know how many would be needed by the prospective renters. He said he received authority to show the buildings inside only last week.

Wayne Harrop, chief of the real property division in the regional office in Kansas City, was in Lincoln to turn over the 400-acre Job Corps land and buildings.

Conditions of the sale included possible removal of one 4,000 sq. ft. steel prefabricated building by the GSA and a restriction on use of the chapel for interdenominational workshop only.

Guidelines Urged For Candidates To List Finances

Presidential candidates and other public figures will now be able to follow standard acounting guidelines when issuing personal financial statments, according to Robert E. Henderson, president of the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPA's).

A new booklet, "Audits of Personal Financial Statements," issued by the American Institute of CPA's, contains recommendations on the form and content of these statements, Henderson said.

He said that a standard form would prevent the confusion resulting from the personal financial statements of candidates, which are difficult to compare because of varied form and content.

The new guiedeline is intended to achieve greater uniformity and to provide the most meaningful information on an individual's financial position, including a parallel listing of assets and liabilities on a cost and current value basis.

Parts Of A, 11th Will Be Closed For Resurfacing

Portions of A and 11th Sts. will be closed temporarily for resurfacing, the city traffic engineer's office announced Wednesday.

A St. will be closed between 9th and 12th until about Aug. 20.

Resurfacing on 11th between Washington and B is expected to be completed about Aug. 17.

Arsonists Blamed By Police In 2nd Local Home Fire

For the second time in two days, arsonists were blamed for a fire inside a Lincoln home.

Officials said that Florence M. Eley, 70, of 5325 Pioneers, reported a fire which burned through a table inside a sun porch on her home.

Officers said the fire had apparently been deliberately set.

On Tuesday, police had blamed apparent arsonists for a fire which caused some damage to a vacant house in northeast Lincoln.

In that incident officers also reported a substantial amount of vandalism inside the home.

Aid Allocations To Counties, Cities Revealed

The State Tax Commissoner's office Wednesday reported its allocation figures on the $10 million in state aid to be distributed next January to the counties and cities under LB554.

Wilbur Houtchens, real estate division chief, said some counties will get more money than earlier estimated because of increased 1968 property valuations while counties with lower valuations will get less.

Earlier estimates compiled for budget planning purposes of local governments used 1967 assessed values.

Houtchens said the new figures incorporate the 1968 assessed valuations reported by the 93 counties and accepted by the State Board of Equalization last month.

Under the 1967 law, one-half of the $10 million is allocated between the counties on the basis of the 1960 census and the other half on the basis of 1968 assessed valuations.

Each county retains 20% of the allocation for its general fund while 80% is redistributed between the cities and villages proportionately to 1960 population.

Douglas County will get get $2,306,900 million, an increase of $29,600 from earlier estimates because of an increased county valuation.

Lancaster County's share will be $945,000, or $54,500 more than previously estimated because of the increased 1968 assessment level, according to reported figures.

Kearney County, which sharply cut back this year's reported assessed valuation from last year's countywide reappraisal total, will lose $14,300 in state aid from earlier estimates. The allocation s $54,800.

Fillmore County, which adopted a scientific reappraisal this year, picked up $11,750 more than earlier estimated, or a total allocation of $96,750.

In the Panhandle area, Cherry County upped its assessed valuation and will get $88,400, which is $5,050 more than estimated.

Houtchens said the state aid gains or lossses from earlier estimates generally reflect the increase or decrease in 1968 property assessment levels for the counties from the previous year.

Fifty-seven counties reported increased property values while 36 showed declines.

Houtchens said the counties are being advised of the new allocation figures.

Tiemann Taking Nebraska-Made Gifts To Japan

Gov. Norbert Tiemann will bear Nebraska-made gifts when he goes to Japan next week on an industrial development mission.

The gifts will be cuff links and tie tacks featuring Nebraska's official gem stone, the blue chalcedony or blue agate.

Arrangements are being made by the Nebraska and South Dakota Jewelers Associaton and the Lincoln Gem and Mineral Club.

When Tiemann and other Nebraskans visited Japan several months ago, they received jewelry from the Japanese.

Tiemann and his group will go to Japan to sign a contract with a Japanese manufacturer for use of Nebraska's patented sugarester process.

Arctic terns nest partly within the Arctic Circle and winter partly within the Antarctic Circle. The round-trip flight may cover more than 22,000 miles.

State Bar Association Can Investigate Lawyers' Actions

By JOAN McCULLOUGH
Star Staff Writer

You are the sole heir to Uncle Henry's $50,000 estate, but the lawyer tells you that you will only receive $35,000. If you want this lawyer's action investigated, what can you do?

You can take the case to the county attorney for investigation and a court trial on a complaint under the usual criminal procedure, or you can report the action to the local Committee on Inquiry of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

What is the Nebraska State Bar Association? How does it differ from the Lincoln Bar Association and the American Bar Association? What powers does it have?

The Nebraska Bar is "integrated", which means that all lawyers who are licensed to practice law in the state are required to belong on an active or inactive status.

The other bar associations are voluntary organizations. The mandatory membership, resulting from a 1937 decision by the Supreme Court of Nebraska, equates loss of membership with losing the right to practice law.

The "integrated" bar exists in 25 other states. The remaining states have voluntary bar associations and loss of membership does not mean a lawyer loses his right to practice law.

Who Decides?

Who decides if a complaint against a lawyer is valid and what the punishment will be?

The complaint is heard by a committee of attorneys appointed in each judicial district by the Supreme Court of Nebraska. This Committee on Inquiry makes an informal and private investigation of the matter.

If the investigation proves the charge to be valid, the matter goes to the State Advisory Committee which is composed of seven attorneys, one from each of the seven Supreme Court Judicial Districts.

This committee can quash the matter or refer it to the Supreme Court of Nebraska for the appointment of a referee who holds hearings and recommends dismissal of the complaint or the filing of a formal complaint in the Supreme Court of Nebraska.

To what extent is the law profession protected under this procedure?

The self-regulating aspect of this closed corporation gives attorneys an opportunity to "police" their own profession for negligent or illegal activity.

Lawyers Protected

Accused lawyers are protected from any publicity on the charge until the case is formally filed in the Supreme Court of Nebraska and is on the public record.

Is this attorney receiving full benefit of the due process of law? Are the standards of conduct and punishment adequately defined? What about the right to a jury trial or the right to remain silent? Does the lawyer get an opportunity to question his accuser in court?

These are some of the questions that arise under the grievance system. However, the attorney and the Association have their day in court.

The lawyer can defend his position all the way to the Supreme Court and the complaintant can do likewise, or file the complaint with the County Attorney.

How many disciplinary cases are there in Nebraska?

Not On Record

The statistics of private investigations are not on the public record, however the Supreme Court has decided six disbarment cases in the past eight years, Justice Harry A. Spencer of the Supreme Court of Nebraska said.

What Code of Ethics do the offending lawyers violate?

The Canons of the American Bar Association were adopted as the governing rules of the Nebraska State Bar Association in a 1937 decision of the Supreme Court of Nebraska.

Do the Canons establish an ethical ideal or minimum requirements to meet the law?

"The Canons are a method by which an attorney can inform himself of the expected conduct, as well as a code to which his behavior must conform," Justice Spencer sad.

These Canons, currently under revision by the American Bar Association, include: the duty of lawyers to the court, lawyer-client relationships, conflicting interests, fee schedules, advertising, partnerships and other areas of professional concern.

Court Judges

The Supreme Court of Nebraska will pass judgment on adopting the revised rules, after the ABA vote.

Canon 8 of the revised code is the formalized statement of the controversial Reardon Report, which will "restrict the content of public releases by lawyers (in a jury trial) to those particular matters where the effect on the jury is outweighed by the desirability of furnishing information to the public."

The Nebraska State Bar Association has not taken a stand on the report as yet.

Is this code in the public interest?

"The purpose of a disbarment proceeding is not so much to punish an attorney as it is to determine, in the public interest, whether he should be permitted to continue to practice law," the State Supreme Court held in Nebraska State Bar Association vs. Wiebusch.

In other areas, financial for instance, the canons establish an example for attorneys to follow in their practice. In 1964 the Nebraska State Bar Association adopted a minimum fee schedule to promote "the efficiency and impartiality of justice."

Rates Average

The rates average $18 per billable office hour, which the Association said, "is necessary if the lawyer wishes to net a reasonable income before taxes."

The schedule outlines explicitly the type of case and the charge. Thus the client is charged the same fee by almost any lawyer in the state. The Association determines the degree to which attorneys must adhere to the schedule.

Definition Difficult

"Definition of what is proper observance of the minimum fee schedule is difficult. Under the ethics of our profession . . . there are reasonable exceptions to the general rule that charges by lawyers should be commensurate with the services rendered," according to the "Manual on Economics of the Bar."

Besides its punitive and economic powers, the Nebraska State Bar Association has many other functions in the judicial system of Nebraska, including the Merit Plan of electing judges for the Supreme and lower courts in Nebraska.

In the program, which was instituted in 1962, the Governor appoints the judge from a list prepared by a nominating commission of three lawyers, three non-lawyers and one Supreme Court Justice.

There is a commission in each district court judicial district. When his term expires, the judge runs for election unopposed on his own record.

The Bar Association is composed of a House of Delegates, (a body of representatives from the 20 District Court Judicial Districts in Nebraska), the Executive Council and various special committees.

Committee Decides

A legislative committee decides whether the Association will endorse or oppose legislation before the Legislature. The legislative organization appears before the legislative committee to explain, support or oppose the bills.

Some members of the Association object to the blanket decisions, representing the action of the whole groups, of which they are required to be members, with no individual voice.

Other committees deal with crime prevention, legal aid, continuing legal education and numerous areas of ethical concern.

"The main advantage of the integrated bar in Nebraska is the vast improvement in the program of legal education," George H. Turner, secretary-treasurer of the Association, said.

"Bridge the Gap," a program sponsored the Young Lawyers Section of the Association, is an orientation in practicing law in Nebraska for new law school graduates who have passed the bar examination.

The two-day program teaches the recent graduates "where the courthouse is," Turner said.

Procedures Formalized

Projects to give law students more experience in practical procedures before graduation are currently being formalized.

In one state the bar association sponsors an "internship" program, giving law students an opportunity to work in law office before they graduate.

Aid to indigent persons, specifically enforced in the Canons of Ethics, is an area where some lawyers feel student work power could be used.

Participation in the procedures of a small claims court would provide another type of experience, and scholarships and financial grants could be offered for extra education of lawyers who specialize in civic, corporate or labor cases, Bar members suggest.

Student memberships in the Nebraska State Bar Association are offered at the University of Nebraska College of Law. To be a regular member of the bar, the recent graduate must pass the state bar examination. These exams are on state law.

Opinions Vary

Students and lawyers expressed mixed opinions about the Bar Association. Some said it represents a frightening source of potential power over private practice, others condemn it for its inconsistency. Still others consider it to be an integral part of the judicial system in Nebraska.

Most concluded that despite its imperfections, the bar association remains the only feasible system of effectively regulating the law profession in Nebraska.

Elba School Bond Given Approval

Elba (AP) — Residents of School District 103 voted at Elba in favor of a $210,000 bond issue for construction and equipment of a school addition.

The vote was 149 to 52 in favor of the proposal, with nine absentee ballots to be counted.

Marooned Sailors Find Friends, Aid

New York (AP) — It might have been easier for the 27 seamen if they had been marooned on a lonely isle. Then they could have foraged for food and water.

But for six months they have been marooned within sight of the skyline of the richest island in the world — Manhattan — and they almost starved before anyone discovered they were there.

The Korean sailors still sat idle Wednesday aboard their anchored freighter, the Indonesian Star, playing checkers and worrying as they have done since February about what is happening to their families in Korea while their ship remains marooned on a shoal of debts.

But they are no longer hungry, frightened and lonely. Staten Island has taken them to her ample bosom and small boats bring food, fresh water, medicine and amusements for the wayfarers.

The 26 sailors and their Korean captain, Hong Jo Yoon, began their global trip in the spring of 1967 in Korea. They were hired by a Texas firm, Galveston Steamship, Inc., and flown to Mombassa, East Africa, to man the freighter, then known as the Galveston Merchant.

When they arrived in New York last February, with an 800-ton cargo of mahogany and rubber destined for Galveston, the ship was detained by creditors. So the 27 Koreans sat and waited.

When they were discovered recently by a Seaman's Church Institute official, Peter Van Wygerden, he said he found they had received no wages since April 30, the $1.25 per man per day allowance for suplies had been paid only sporadically to the captain, and the cupboard was bare.

Conditions were the "worst Wygerden reported to a Staten Island newspaper.

He told of roaches moving in solid brown sheets across the galley and storerooms, I have ever seen," Van said the food was nearly gone, and the sailors had no soap and little water.

The story brought immediate response. Two turkeys, vegetables, canned goods and cash were contributed by Staten Islanders and an exterminating company offered to take care of the roaches.

Families produced a television set and games. From other donors came bed linens, rice, cabbage, cigarettes, summer clothing and laundry service.

The National Maritime Union offered medical services, and took the men ashore for visits to the union's recreational facilities.

Meanwhile, an attorney, Kenneth Nam, brought court action seeking to get the sailors their back wages and passage home. The court ordered the sale of the vessel to pay off the company's debts.

But Nam said the ship can't be sold until the cargo is removed.

Through all this, the shipowners remained silent. And their New York lawyer says he can't comment now.

Smiles Win Villa, Lose $71 'Tax'

Helsinki, Finland (UPI)— The jolly con man would rap on doors and tell the lucky householder, "Smile, you're on the candid camera and you have just won a summer villa."

Police reported hundreds of gullible "winners" paid Manne Puolakka the advance "tax" of $71 he asked for the villas.

The search is on for Puolakka.

Exhibit Draw Crowds

Lund, Sweden (AP) — An exhibition of erotic sculpture, paintings and posters from all over the world in the Lund Art Gallery has drawn 71,000 foreign tourists and Swedes who in three months spent nearly $250,000 for admissions, catalogues and prints, sponsors reported.

NU Professor, Eugene C. Gross, 37, Dies

Eugene Claude Gross of 435 Steinway Rd., professor in the University of Nebraska Physical Education Department, died Wednesday at the age of 37.

Mr. Gross had been a consultant for development of the Job Corps Training Center in Lincoln in the areas of health, physical education, recreation, safety and driver education.

Besides his professorship, Mr. Gross had been a director of physical education for the Peace Corps Training Center at the University and consultant in that area to the Peace Corps in Washington, D.C.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., he received his bachelor's degree from Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield and his master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Colorado in Boulder. He also attended Florida State University in Tallahassee.

He had previously taught at a Waynesville, Mo., high school, the University of Colorado and Florida State University.

He had been secretary-treasurer for the Nebraska Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation and chairman of the health education section the association's central district.

Survivors include his wife, Irene; son, Steven, at home; daughter, Cindy, at home; father, A. G. Gross of Foristell, Mo., and mother, Mrs. Joe A. Mayer of Mountain Grove, Mo.

Forest Reserve Funds Are Slated For Five Counties

Distribution of $17,974 in forest reserve funds to five Nebraska counties was announced Wednesday by Commissioner Floyd Miller.

The fund is supported by income from federal forest reserves and is distributed proportionately to the counties in which the acres are located.

The announced apportionment is Cherry County, $8,469; Thomas, $5,851, Dawes, $2,868, Blaine $772 and Sioux, $11.

Demo Committee Being Polled On Convention Policy

The 98 members of the Nebraska Democratic Central Committee are being polled for their views on policies affecting the party's national convention in Chicago.

Views are being sought on the so-called unit rule, under which all votes of a delegation are cast for a candidate favored by the majority.

Also sought are views on a proposal that members of the Nebraska delegation vote against the seating at the national convention of delegates who, in their opinion, have been selected by means which are contrary to democratic principles.

Resolutions covering these points were considered but were tabled at a July 14 central commtitee meeting in Lincoln.

"This is a poll and shall only reflect the individual thinking of the central committee members," noted State Chairman John C. Mitchell of Omaha.

"The results, whether for or against, shall not become part of our official minutes but the results shall be used to instruct the state chairman as to what course of action to follow with reference to passing on these recommendations."

Unit voting is not permitted in Nebraska.

Horses Feared Dead In Barn Fire

Five horses apparently died Wednesday when flames swept through the barn on a Lancaster County farm, officials said.

Over 15 other horses escaped the fire, however, when they were released from the barn by Mrs. Mabel Miller, wife of the farm's owner, Earl Miller of Rt. 3, Lincoln.

Mrs. Miller was hospitalized later Wednesday, suffering from smoke inhalation, hospital officials reported.

Her condition was described as "fairly good."

The woman had apparently noticed the blazing barn and managed to release all the horses she could.

When the horses were rounded up later, however, five were missing and believed dead underneath the rubble of the barn.

The barn, used for hay storage as well as a horse stable, was a complete loss. Also reported destroyed were expensive saddles inside the barn and a nearby garage.

Wind and sparks from the burning barn ignited the garage, witnesses said.

The fire, which broke out shortly after noon Wednesday, was apparently caused by lightning.

A neighbor reported seeing a lightning bolt strike the approximate area of the barn shortly before flames and smoke were sighted.

Fire units from Raymond, Ceresco and Waverly responded to the alarm. Some units which had left the farm were called back later in the afternoon when the garage ignited.

Paper walls are made of kraft paper stiffened with resin and honeycombed into six-sided cells. This honeycomb core is covered with paperboard treated to make it resistant to fire, water and termites.

Arterial Lighting Bids Are Opened; Energy's Lowest

Energy Enterprises was the apparent low bidder Wednesday for two city arterial lighting contracts totaling $11,919.

For a labor only contract involving lighting on 70th Street from Vine to Cotner, Energy Enterprises bid $9,958. ABC Electric bid $10,495 for the project.

Energy Enterprises bid $1,961 for lighting on Vine from Cotner to 70th Street. ABC Electric submitted a bid of $2,846.

Kennard Home Memorial To Open Aug. 18

The restored 100-year-old Thomas P. Kennard home, officially designated the Nebraska Statehood Memorial, will open to public inspection on Aug. 18, State Historical Society Director Marvin Kivett reported Wednesday.

The 1869 two-story brick house is located at 1627 H, just southeast of the Capitol.

Kivett said formal dedication ceremonies would be held at a later date, when a historical marker becomes available.

Restoration of the Kennard house was authorized by the 1965 Legislature with an appropriation of $50,000. The restoration work required some two years and was aided by private contributions.

Thomas P. Kennard was a member of the Capital Commission which selected the site of Nebraska's capital city and first capitol building and also served as secretary of state.

Kivett said the four downstairs rooms have been furnished with selected 1870-1880 period furniture.

East Campus Labs Named By Regents

Two buildings on the University of Nebraska east campus were named for former staff members of the College of Agriculture at the Board of Regents meeting here Wednesday.

The new seed laboratory was named for the late Paul H. Stewart, a Nebraska alumnus, who served as a county agent, instructor in agronomy and extension agronomist.

Active in the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association for 24 years, he was instrumental in the development of the seed certification program.

The Regents named the remodeled crops laboratory for an internationally-known research scientist, the late Dr. T. A. Kiesselbach.

Corn Pioneer

Dr. Kiesselbach was known for his work on crops and was a pioneer in the development of hybrid corn. He was an NU graduate and member of its staff for 43 years.

In other action the Regents approved an agreement with Shattuck Feed Yards in Juniata for feeding some 950 experimental calves for the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center at Clay Center until the NU facilities under construction are completed.

Property at 1910 T St. was purchased from E. W. Ketelsen for $4,500, and a specialized videotape recorder and accessories for the Great Plains Television Library was purchased from Amplex Corporation for $120,000.

Arnwine Appointed

In personnel action, the Regents appointed Dr. William C. Arnwine professor and chairman of industrial-general engineering at the NU campus in Omaha. A graduate of Oklahoma State and Iowa State, he formerly was associate professor at University of Arkansas.

The Regents accepted the resignations of Dr. Malcolm Helper, associate professor of medical psychology at the Medical Center in Omaha; Francis E. Colgan, head of correspondence study, and M. Dane Picard, professor of geology.

Full-time appointments included:

—Dr. Norman R. Malm of New Mexico State University to associate professor of agronomy at the Scotts Bluff Station.

—Duane E. Loewenstein, former chief advisor to the NU group at Ataturk University, to associate state leader of 4-H.

A total of $295,741 in gifts and grants were received during the past month.

Hospital Says Alleged Killer Left In Company Of Husband

Supt. Edwin Coats of the Lincoln State Hospital said Wednesday that Mrs. Winona Ricehill Hayes, against whom second-degree murder charges have been filed in Omaha, did not escape from the hospital last fall, but left the hospital with her husband.

Records of the Douglas County Mental Health Board listed Mrs. Hayes as having been committed to the institution Sept. 15 but escaping Oct. 8.

Dr. Coats explained that although Mrs. Hayes' husband notified hospital personnel he was taking his wife home, it was listed technically as an escape because the absence was without hospital permission.

Mrs. Hayes was given an administrative discharge 10 days later.

Mrs. Hayes, 38, is accused of shooting Roy Wilkinson, 59, who lived in an apartment in the Omaha building in which Mrs. Hayes resided.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

National Cycle Race Set Sunday

National championship professional motorcycle racing comes to Nebraska for the first time Sunday with Lincoln's Midwest Speedways playing host to one of four National Steeplechase Championship races.

More than 75 of the nation's top race-for-pay pros will be on hand for the championship race with time trials set for 10 a.m., heat races, consolation and 25-lap championship scheduled for 1 p.m.

A Class A Short Track motorcycle racing program is set for 8 p.m. Saturday as a preliminary to the Sunday spectacular.

Riders from 15 states will be shooting for the guaranteed purse of $6,000 with the field including a dozen riders who have won at least one national championship race in recent years.

The leader in this category is Bart Markel of Flint, Mich., winner of 23 national races since 1960 with three of them coming this year on the national circuit of 16 races that started in February at Houston's Astrodome.

The point leader is Gary Nixon of Baltimore, Md., who carries the No. 1 on his cycle as a result of winning the national point title lst year.

Close behind in the standings are Cal Rayborn of San Diego, Calif., Markel, Fred Nix of Lawton, Okla., Dan Haaby of Inglewod, Calif., Mert Lawwill of San Francisco, Gene Romero of San Luis Obispo, Calif., and Skip Van Leeuwen of Hollywood. All are entered in the Lincoln meet.

A top challenger to win the Sunday event is Jim Corpe of Decatur, Ill.

NL President Warren Giles Flies To Montreal For Meeting To Decide Fate Of New Franchise

Montreal (AP) — Racing against time, officials and sponsors of Montreal's beleaguered National League franchise will meet again tonight after apparently coming up with few answers Wednesday to problems that could cost the city the team.

"Our main problem is time," said Mayor Jean Drapeau after emerging from the all-day meeting, also attended by league president Warren Giles and John McHale, administrative assistant to Commissioner William D. Eckert.

"I would think there will be a Montreal baseball franchise," Giles said after Wednesday's 90-minute morning meeting. "But they have until Aug. 15. We didn't accomplish as much as we would have liked to."

On Aug. 15 financial backers will have to put up a first payment of $1,120,000 to keep the franchise awarded to Montreal last May 27.

WARREN GILES

"The period of time we have to execute everything is so short," the mayor said. "We're working against the clock."

The mayor would not name the specific problems confronting the sponsors and the city, but "we both want the same thing — the best solution for everybody," he said.

The mayor said a plan to put a roof over the 25,000-seat Autostade, built for Expo 67, is "close to being rejected.

"It would be too costly for its purpose. If it could be done for a cheaper price, it would be all right."

He said he hoped he could provide some answers after today's meeting, scheduled for 5 p.m., EDT.

"We would have liked to have accomplished more but there are many problems that have to be ironed out," the mayor said.

One of the chief problems has been the financing of a dome for a temporary stadium. Original plans called for an expenditure of $2 million but this was later increased to $5 million. Some observers feel that the cost could reach $10 million.

The domed temporary stadium would be abandoned when a projected Astrodome-type stadium is complete. The weather-proof type park is necessary because of the rainy and relatively cold weather here in April, early May and late Septmeber.

Giles said that the two groups discussed the two stadiums during the morning meeting.

"Whenever you deal with a municipality that is politically functioning you have problems. It's different with privately-owned industry," Giles said.

He pointed out that the league experienced some difficulty after awarding other league franchises. "We had some trouble in Houston and we had a little difficulty in San Diego," he said.

Montreal and San Diego were awarded franchises last May 27 after the circuit's clubowners decided to keep pace with the American League by expanding from 10 to 12 teams, starting with the 1969 season.

Both new teams are given until Aug. 15 to make first payments of $1,120,000 to the league for their franchises. Milwaukee and Buffalo are both seeking the Montreal franchise. Those two cities, plus Dallas-Fort Worth, also bid for franchises last May, but were bypassed.

Tuesday night, WGN broadcast in Chicago it had learned that Montreal would lose the franchise. This was denied by John Newman, one of the club's backers.

Another Sponsor Pulls Out

Montreal (AP) — Another sponsor of Montreal's new National League expansion franchise has withdrawn his financial support, the Montreal Gazette reported Wednesday night.

The newspaper said Robert Irsay of Chicago sent a telegram to Charles Bronfman, another backer, Wednesday morning and told him he was pulling out.

Bronfman kept the telegram secret from city officials, sponsors and league officials who attended a meeting Wednesday in Montreal to discuss the problems surrounding the franchise.

Irsay is a Chicago air-conditioning executive.

Marv Bourgie, a wealthy funeral director, was the first to drop out of the original group of seven backers. J. Louis Levesque, financier and horse owner, was next to leave. Their departure cast doubts on the financial stability of the franchise.

DETROIT SWEEPS INDIANS

Birds Hang In There, 3-0 Over Minnesota

. . . BOSTON HITS CHISOX, 3-2

By Associated Press

John Wyatt set down Cleveland in order in the ninth inning of a suspended game and Detroit completed a doubleheader sweep over the Indians, 5-2, Wednesday night.

The Tigers had won the first game 2-1 in 17 innings Tuesday night, and the nightcap was suspended by curfew after eight innings.

In Wednesday night's regular scheduled game, Detroit beat Cleveland 6-1.

Baltimore remained 6½ games behind the American League leading Tigers with a 3-0 victory over Minnesota in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader. Jim Hardin pitched a six-hitter and Frank Robinson and Curt Blefary homered.

Ken Harrelson's 29th homer, a two-run shot in a three-run first inning, sent Boston to a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox in an afternoon single game.

The New York Yankees and Oakland split a twinbill, the Yankees grabbing the opener 3-0 on Joe Pepitone's two-run homer and Mel Stottlemyre's six-hitter before Reggie Jackson's 10th inning run-scoring hit gave the Athletics the nightcap 4-3.

Oakland tied the second game in the eighth inning when Joe Keough became the 37th player in major league history to homer in his first time at bat, and won it, 4-3.

In a National League single afternoon contest, Willie McCovey's leadoff homer in the eighth inning, his second of the game, carried San Francisco to a 4-3 triumph over Philadelphia.

Paul Blair's two-run pinch single in the sixth put Baltimore ahead and the Orioles added three runs in the seventh for a 9-6 nightcap victory and a sweep of their twi-night doubleheader with the Minnesota Twins.

Jim Hardin hurled a 3-0 six-hitter in the opener.

Hardin notched his 14th triumph with the aid of solo homers by Curt Blefary and Frank Robinson in the first game.

Despite the sweep, the second-place Orioles failed to gain ground on American League leading Detroit, which won a pair from Cleveland to remain 6½ games ahead.

Left-hander Mel Nelson, making just his fourth start of the season, pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

In other night games, the Astros beat the New York Mets in a fight-filled Astrodome game, 4-3, and the Atlanta Braves slowed down the hot Chicago Cubs, 10-2.

Ron Fairly and Bob Bailey each drove in two runs and Don Sutton scattered eight hits as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Pittsburgh 6-2.

A's Rookie Homers

New York (AP) —Rookie Joe Keough of the Oakland Athletics tied a major league record Wednesday when he smashed a home run in his first major league at-bat.

Burwell Opens Four-Day Rodeo

Burwell (AP) — The annual Burwell Rodeo opened its four day run Wednesday afternoon.

Leaders after the first go-round included:

Calf roping — J. R. Graves, Nowata, Okla., 12.9 seconds.

Bull riding — Bill Kornell, Clarksville, Tex., 65 points.

Cowgirl barrel race — Tie: Kay Whittaker, Valentine, and Margaret Hawkins, Arthur, 20.3 seconds.

Wild horse race — Marvin Freeman, Burwell.

Rancher Jack, a big gray gelding, won the featured Go Big Red Purse, while the favorites sent the longshots back to obscurity at the State Fairgrounds track Wednesday.

Rancher Jack, rated 3 to 1, sped wire to wire, holding off 8-to-5 favorite Harmonic in the stretch to win by two lengths.

Ridden by Terry Barnes, Rancher Jack posted one of the better six-furlong times of the meeting, 1:12 1-5, on a track listed as "good" on the tote board and "fast" by Daily Racing Form officials.

Owned by C. L. Sisson of Ewing, Rancher Jack returned $8.00, $4.40 and $2.80, while Harmonic returned $4.20 and $2.60, and show horse Miss Risque paid $2.80.

Presenting the Go Big Red blanket were Bob Devaney and a host of others from the NU Athletic Department, including Joe Cipriano, Jim Pittenger, Clete Fischer, Carl Selmer, Mike Corgan and Monte Kiffin.

Betting favorites won five of the eight races, while missing a sixth when Daring Ballad was disqualified and placed third after finishing first in the sixth race.

Big News, under William Stallings, originally finished third with Molly Doon second in the sixth. However, Stallings charged that his mount was bumped by Daring Ballad at the head of the stretch.

Stewards agreed and moved Molly Doon up to first and Big News up to second, while dropping Daring Ballad, ridden by Bernard Howland, down to third.

An objection earlier in the day by jockey Charles Steck against Marvin Coleman in the second race was disallowed, leaving Coleman a 5½-length winner aboard Toesaburnen and Steck in second place atop Alfreds Dream.

Toesaburnen completed a $27.40 daily double (9-7) with first-race winner Jay's Mark.

Every winning payoff Wednesday was under $10, a far cry from Tuesday, when only two of nine winners returned under $10.

Bettors needing help Wednesday needed to look no further than their program, which picked seven of the eight winners, missing only on Rancher Jack, which it listed third.

Charlie Borner Sizzles For 69 To Take Lead

. . . CITY MEN'S GOLF MEET

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Charlie Borner, playing superb golf from tee to green, moved out front by five strokes Wednesday in his bid to make the Lincoln Men's City Golf Tournament his third straight triumph in three weeks.

The winner of the Nebraska Men's State Amateur and the Governor's Sweepstakes the past two weeks overcame putting problems to record a two-under-par 69 Wednesday at Pioneers Park, giving him an even-par 143 at the halfway mark.

Five strokes back is R. B. Lau, the 1966 champion who added a 75. Wednesday to his first round 73 that gave him the lead on opening day.

Tied for third at six strokes back of Borner are Scott Brunzell, who will be a sophomore this fall at Nebraska, and former champion Roy Wythers. Both carded one over-par 72s Wednesday for 36-hole scores of 149.

Borner two-putted every green on the back side Wednesday while shooting an even-par 35, hitting every green in regulation.

He sandwiched three birdies around a bogey at the second hole on the front side, hitting birdie putts of eight feet at No. 1, 13 feet at No. 5 and seven feet at the eighth.

"He hit everything so great," Ed Smith, who played in the same threesome with Borner, explained. "I was getting tired of saying, 'Nice shot, Charlie.'

"If he had just made some putts, he' have shot 60."

Lau, the first round leader, ran into trouble early Wednesday, going four-over-par on the first five holes with bogeys at the first, second, fourth and fifth.

He recovered a bit with birdies at the sixth and eighth to make the turn in two-over-par 38 and picked up another stroke on par with a birdie at the 11th.

But when he bogeyed the 12th, 13th and 15th, he found himself five strokes out of the lead.

Lance Gloe made the biggest move Wednesday, coming up with a one-under-par 70 for the only sub-par round, in addition to Borner's 69, to be scored in the first two days of the tourney.

The round was 10 strokes better than his opening 80 at Hillcrest Tuesday and put him in fifth place, seven strokes back of Borner.

The golfers move to Holmes Park today for the third round with the final 18 holes set for the Lincoln Country Club Friday. The annual banquet also is set for LCC Friday night.

R. H. Lau, father of R. B., rallied Wednesday to move into the Seniors Division lead with a 36-hole total of 158.

He came in with a four-over-par 75 Wednesday after shooting 83 Tuesday at Hillcrest.

Also moving up in the Seniors Division was Dean Boling, who shot 74 Wednesday after an 85 Tuesday for a 159 total, only one stroke off the pace.

Tuesday's co-leaders in the Seniors, Harry Brightman and Ken Perry, who both had 82s Tuesday, faltered Wednesday with Brightman taking 83 and Perry 87.

ISU Hires A White Grid Coach

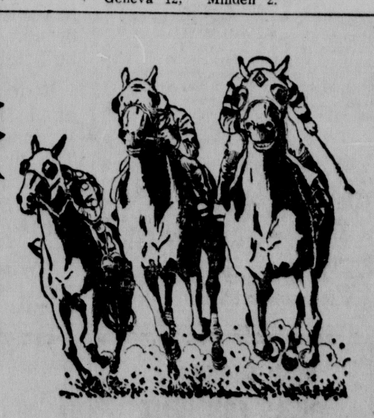

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State University football Coach Johnny Majors announced the appointment of a white backfield coach Wednesday, but he pledged to seek a Negro coach to add to his staff during the coming year.

Majors said he has hired Ollie Keller, 38, of Memphis, Tenn., to coach the backfield, but he said he hoped to meet a demand of the Iowa State Black Students Organization that a Negro coach be hired.

"I will do this not as a part of any deal to entice the black athletes to remain at Iowa State" Majors said, but because "I, myself, honestly and sincerely believe that a qualified black coach would be a valuable addition to our football program."

The Black Student Organization had given the Iowa State Athletic Council a deadline of Aug. 1 to meet a list of demands, including one that a black football coach be hired.

Majors said he started his negotiations with Keller, head coach at Memphis Catholic High School, "weeks ago" and there wasn't time to find a black coach before the football season opened.

Golf's Tour Pros Near Break With PGA Body

. . . SITUATION CALLED 'GRAVE'

New York (AP) — The threat of a break between the tournament pros and the parent Professional Golfers Association arose again Wednesday night with a strong chance that the players may pull out and form their own independent tour.

Both representatives of the touring players and the PGA acknowledged that latest efforts to settle their difficulties had run into a stalemate.

"I can't tell you anything now — I can only tell you the situation is grave," said Gardner Dickinson, chairman of the four-man Players Tournament Committee.

Gardner called a compulsory meeting of all tournament players at the Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio, Wednesday night.

"Everybody was told to be there," Dickinson said.

Leo Fraser of Atlantic City, N.J., secretary of the PGA and a member of the PGA Executive Committee, returned home from a series of meetings with players in Akron, where the stars are gathered for the American Golf Classic, starting Thursday.

Fraser is slated to succeed Max Elbin of Washington, D.C. as the next PGA president. "I don't know what these players want," Fraser said when pressed for comment on the situation. "We can't go any farther than we have. We cannot give the tour away.

"The PGA was formed 52 years ago. The PGA developed and built the tour. Constitutionally, we have no right to give the tour away. That is up to the PGA members."

The PGA is an organization of club and playing pros. The club pros outnumber the playing pros about 5-1.

The players are reported demanding the right to run the $5.6 million tour without interference from the PGA.

One of their demands is that they be allowed to hire a commissioner — a kind of a czar — who would have complete control over the conduct of the tour.

Joseph C. Dey, president of the U.S. Golf Association, is said to be high on the list of candidates.

The PGA has flatly rejected the czar idea.

"What do we need a commissioner for?" said Fraser. "We're not a football or a baseball organization. We're a corporation, and we operate as a corporation does."

Fraser indicated that the PGA was prepared to take a hardnosed attitude toward the players' demands.

"We're not going to continue playing opossum," the PGA official added.

Dickinson said he was pledged to silence for the moment.

"The commissioner thing isn't the only problem," he said. "We have many problems, and ultimately they will come out."

Shrine Profiles

RANDY BADTKE

The tallest player on either squad in the upcoming Shrine Bowl all-star football game is 6-6 Randy Badtke. But unless the North squad comes up with a center-eligible play he won't be catching any passes.

Badtke

The 200-pound Omaha North star will be anchoring the line from his pivot spot.

An all-conference and all-city choice last fall, Badtke is a fine student who says his favorite subject is chemistry and that he plans a career in engineering.

NATE McKINNEY

The next player to wear the familiar No. 66 on NU's Memorial Stadium turf will be Boys Town's Nate McKinney during the 10th annual Shrine Bowl all-star football game Aug. 24.

McKinney

The California native was an outstanding football, basketball and track star for Boys Town and an all-city and all-state choice.

The 5-9, 185-pound McKinney will be in the backfield for the South team during the Shrine clash.

Wondering Aunt Priscilla Has Winner

I'm still wondering about that filly named Noka who threw jockey Bill Stallings Monday and ran the wrong way on the track.

Priscella

She was supposed to run in Wednesday's fourth race, but she was scratched, so I still can't tell if she's a race horse or a rodeo horse.

I sure hope she runs later this week.

Wednesday was a good day for me, since I broke my losing streak — and with a gray horse, too! Rancher Jack returned $8 on my win ticket in the seventh, but my other choice, Drupid, in the first, didn't make it.

With my spree fund now at $78, I'll bet $2 to win on Kathy's Date in the fourth and Sooner Flash in the eighth.

Port Neches Still Rolling

The Port Neches, Tex., Knighthawks continued defense of their ball hockey title by blanking the Mission, Kan., Mission Hawks, 4-0, in the North American Roller Skating championships at Pershing Auditorium Wednesday.

The Oregon Beaners advanced with three wins in the ball hockey competition, while Burlington, Wash., defeated two foes in the puck hockey competition.

Wednesday was the second day of competition leading up to tonight's finals.

Power Outage Stops Softball

Wednesday night's power outrage stopped all City Softball games scheduled for 8:45 and league director Al Hawthorne said all games would be resumed tonight at 6 p.m. prior to the regularly-scheduled contests.

In a Class AAA game at Ballard Field, Burmood bombed KOLN-TV, 13-4, behind two home runs by Roger Patton and one by Ronnie Martin.

—LOMBARDI HONORED—

Vince Hands Off Political Football

Green Bay, Wis. (AP) — A smiling Vince Lombardi, obviously enjoying his special day — a salute to Vince Lombardi — said Wednesday he had "no interest in politics," although he had been approached.

"I don't think I could make a contribution," the Green Bay Packers' general manager said. "I'm too much of an idealist."

Lombardi, who retired as coach earlier this year after leading the Packers to a record-tying three consecutive National Football League championships and two Super Bowl titles, said he has not been approached with another coaching offer since relinquishing the field position with the Packers.

"Coaching is not a profession for has-beens," he said.

At a news conference following a private mass at Resurrection Church, Lombardi was asked if as a boy he had dreamed of having a street named after him. A native New Yorker, Lombardi said, "Yes, Broadway."

Shortly after the news conference, the street that leads to the Packer Stadium was renamed Lombardi Avenue.

"I think the City Commission really blew it," Lombardi jokingly said. "With imagination, they could have called it Via Lombardi."

Noting that streets are usually named after the deceased, Lombardi said he wanted to assure the crowd "I'm not dead."

Don Tilleman, Green Bay mayor, told the audience at the street dedication:

"For two solid days we have had rain. As you can see, today the sun is shining. I don't know if it was by design or by command."

VINCE LOMBARDI

Attending the day-long celebration were the residents of several NFL teams, including Art Modell, Cleveland Browns; Max Winter, Minnesota Vikings; Louis Spadia, San Francisco 49ers; Charles Bidwell, St. Louis Cardinals, and Arthur Rooney, Pittsburgh Steelers.

Other included Jim Kensil, representing Pete Roselle, NFL commissioner; Pete Carlesimo, Athletic director of Fordham University; and representatives of the Baltimore Colts, Chicago Bears, Detroit Lions and Atlanta Falcons.

Maj. Gen. Ralph Olson, Wisconsin's adjutant general, Att. Gen. Bronson C. Lafollette, and U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson also were present.

Illinois-ND Sold Out

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's third sellout of the 1968 football season, the Illinois-Irish contest Oct. 19, was announced Wednesday by ticket manager Bob Cahill.

Lincoln Race Drivers Head For Knoxville

Knoxville, Iowa — Veteran Lincoln race driver Lloyd Beckman, second place finisher last year, heads a long list of Lincoln drivers in this year's National Super Modified Championships to be held at the Marion County Fairgrounds in Knoxville, Iowa Thursday, Friday and Saturday with the largest purse ever, $20,000.

Rager

More than 50 drivers from nine states had entered before last weekend and track director Marion Robinson said he expected close to 100 of the nation's finest super drivers to be registered before Wednesday's deadline. $3,000 in cash awaits the new champ when he's crowned following the 30-lap championship run on Saturday night.

So far, in addition to Beckman, five other Lincoln drivers, including some regulars at the Knoxville track, are already registered. Kenny Gritz, Joe Saldana, Lonnie Jensen, rookie-of-the-year candidate Roger Rager and Dutch Buettgenbach will be hoping to take the championship back to Lincoln.

All but Jensen and Buettgenbach are regulars at the Knoxville track on Saturday nights during the racing season and all are in the top 20 in point standings.

Wahoo Rodeo Slated For Opening Tonight

Wahoo — The annual Wahoo Rodeo with 130 entries, including six of the top 15 all-around cowboys in the national standings, opens at 8 p.m. tonight.

Performances also are set for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

City Junior Golf Entries Due Soon

Lincoln's junior golfers have until Sunday to enter the second annual Junior Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Lincoln Association of Life Underwriters, at the Junior Golf Course Aug. 14-17.

Competitors may not be 16 before Sept. 1 and entry blanks are available at all Lincoln courses.

Competition is set in four divisions for boys and two for girls with boys competing in the 9 and under, 10-11, 12-13 and 14-15 age brackets. Girls will compete in 12 and under and 13-15 age groups.

Dozen 'Hall' Yanks Among Old Timers

New York (AP) — A dozen members of baseball's Hall of Fame will be on display Saturday in the New York Yankees' 22nd annual Old Timers Day baseball game, preceding the regular contest with the Minnesota Twins.

The Hall of Famers will include Leon "Goose" Goslin and Joe Medwick, the latest inductees.

Also on hand will be former Yankees Joe DiMaggio, Bill Dickey and Charles "Red" Ruffing and Luke Appling, Joe Cronin, Bob Feller, Frankie Frisch, Bill Terry, Lefty Grove and Pie Traynor.

DiMaggio will be reunited with his former outfield mates, Tommy Henrich and Charlie Keller.

State Fair Sprint Car Card Slated

Three afternoons of sprint car racing have been scheduled for the Nebraska State Fair in Lincoln Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2 under the sanction of International Motor Contest Association.

The annual State Fair is always considered a racing plum for the open cockpit drivers on the 53-year-old I.M.C.A. circuit The three big days of speedway competition is sure to lure the best on the senior circuit for action for the fast half-mile dirt track.

Time trials will be held on opening day and again on Sept. 2. There are no time trials on Sunday and drivers will compete from qualifications held the previous day. The schedule of events includes three heat races, a match race, a consolation or pursuit event and the feature race.

The program will be under the direction of National Speedways of Florida, Inc., Al Sweeney of Tampa, Florida president and Gene Van Winkle of Lincoln, vice-president and general manager.

Qualification runs start at 1 p.m. and the racing events start at two o'clock on all three days.

Zoning Appeal Action Deferred; Board Divided

The Board of Zoning Appeals Wednesday had to defer action on an appeal of E. H. Schmucker when members split 2-2 on a vote to grant the appealed building permit

Any action of the board requires three votes for passage.

Schmucker had been refused a city building permit to replace the existing foundation of his house at 1603 No. 64th because a 17 foot setback is required on the Fairfax side of the street under the building code.

Schmucker appealed on the grounds that the permit was refused because of the location of the house on the lot, but the house had been built on the site at least 50 years ago before the restrictions were put into effect.

The cost of moving the building to the proper location on the lot would make the cost of replacement too great, he claimed.

City Attorney Ralph Nelson told the board that it could waive the requirements with restrictions so that a new house could not be built on the existing foundation.

The City Planning Department, recommending denial, pointed out that adherence to the code is the only way to get nonconforming houses down. The owner could move his house, perform the job piecemeal or let it deteriorate until it would have to be torn down, it was indicated.

Voting for the motion to waive the requirements were Lowell Heiliger and Richard Ricketts. Mrs. James Arnot and Adam Breckenridge opposed the action.

Sheriffs, Judges Send Aides To County Officials Meeting

In efforts to work more closely together, representatives of county sheriffs and judges attended a board meeting of the Nebraska Association of County Officials Wednesday.

No one attended from the county offices of school superintendents and attorneys, also invited to the meeting, according to Arnold Ruhnke, executive director of the organization.

All other county officials currently belong to the organization. The representatives are to present proposals to their associates relative to joining the organization.

The officials hope to establish a legislative committee to process proposals of county offices, giving endorsements or criticisms of the proposals.

The next meeting of the group is Sept. 13 in Omaha. At that time plans will be made for the annual convention to be held in November.

Byrd Given 3-Year Term For Stabbing

An additional three-year sentence was given to life-term convict James Byrd, 28, for stabbing another prisoner.

Byrd, serving the life sentence for his part in the slaying of a Lincoln policeman, pleaded guilty to the assault charge filed in connection with the stabbing of James Ray Moore, 23, of Omaha in the prison recreation yard.

Lancaster District Court Judge Elmer Scheele pronounced the sentence. Byrd was formerly in jail in Indiana.

Moore, serving a 12-year term for rape, was stabbed twice with a scissors in the upper chest and right arm.

4 State Colleges Expect Increased Fall Enrollments

Enrollment increases are expected at the four state colleges this fall, Secretary E. Albin Larson of the Nebraska Normal Board reported Wednesday.

Larson said officials from Kearney, Wayne, Chadron and Peru informed the board earlier this week that advance student registrations are running ahead of the year-ago level.

Last fall, a record 10,819 students enrolled at the colleges, with Kearney topping the list at 4,660.

Larson said school officials are in the process of drafting their 1969-71 tax fund budget requests to meet the enrollment crush.

Shared Interest In Dogs Grows To $100,000 Suit

What began as a shared intereest in raising purebred dogs has developed into a $100,000 lawsuit filed in Lancaster District Court Wednesday.

Harriet Fay Ager filed the suit against Audrey Carper, alleging that the defendant had alienated the affections of the plantiff's husband, Allen Lee Ager.

She alleges that the defendant induced Ager to take trips out of the city with her, telling his wife that he had fallen in love with the defendant and wanted a divorce.

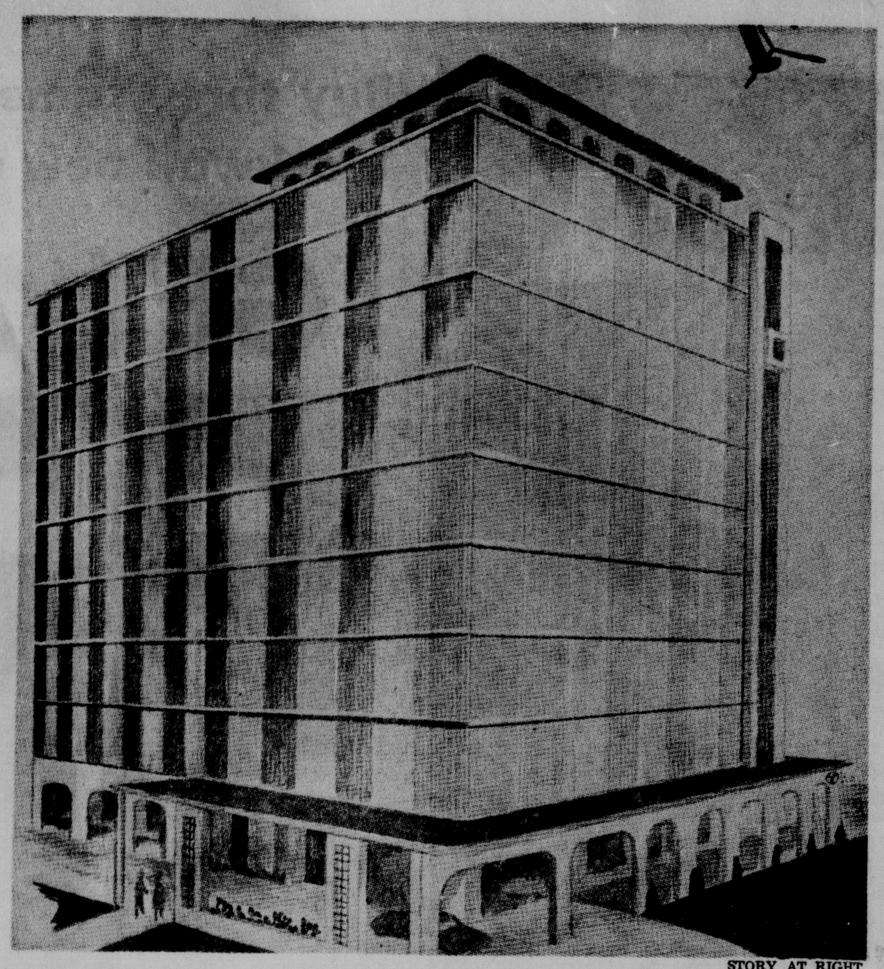

The petition contends that Ager was a dog fancier and he had previously introduced the defendant to the plaintiff as a person having a common interest in raising blooded dogs.

Eustis Man Dies In Farm Mishap

Eustis (AP) — William Schultheiss, 58, Eustis, died in a Cozad hospital Wednesday of injuries suffered in a farm accident.

He was stacking hay bales on the Herbert Koch farm near Eustis when he fell from the hay pile late Tuesday. He died a few hours later in the hosital.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Friday at the Lutheran Church in Eustis.

ARTIST'S CONCEPTION . . . of proposed building.

Change In Zoning At 13th, H Sts. Sought To Allow 'Dream' Building

With a heliport on the top floor and four stories of parking in the basement, the apartment-office building proposal of J. L. McMaster for a 13th and H St. corner would be a unique landmark for Lincoln.

Planned for a site on the thoroughfare between the State Capitol and the new county-city building, the 10-story structure would help fill city needs for inexpensive close-in living, parking and office space, declared McMaster, who owns and operates the McMaster Realty Co.

The glass and pre-cast concrete-faced building would replace several old, deteriorating houses McMaster owns on the 225x142-foot lot.

Change Needed

Necessary for the Lincolnite's "dream" to become a reality, however, is a change of zone for the 13th and H southwest corner.

He is in the process of preparing an application to change the zoning from the current four-story limitation to zoning that would permit buildings up to 10 stories high.

His first application for a zoning change at the site was denied three years ago, but McMaster believes that subsequent actions of city officials, including selecting the site of the county-city building, show a change in previous attitudes.

McMaster, who used to live in one of the H St. houses, said he has been planning the project since he returned from military service in World War II.

District Moving

As expected, he pointed out, it has become apparent that the downtown district will move south more and more with the area bounded somewhat by the railroad tracks on the west, the University of Nebraska on the north, and the auditorium and Statehouse on the east.

Eventually the business district growth will be to F or even D St., he predicted.

The proposed building is planned with 32 furnished apartment units, none larger than two bedrooms, on the second to ninth floors around the perimeter. Inside areas would be constructed for offices.

A helicopter franchise is already interested in the planned tenth floor heliport, reported McMaster. The elevator to the heliport would be glassed-in on outside of the structure.

The ground floor would be built for small businesses such as a coffee shop, beauty parlor and barber shop, and drugstore.

In addition to four stories of underground parking, McMaster expects to include a recreation area in the basement, complete with swimming pool, sauna bath and party and game rooms.

Senator Arrives For Soviet Talks

Moscow (AP) — Mike Mansfield, the U.S. Senate majority leader, arrived in Moscow Wednesday for talks with Soviet officials.

Israeli-Lebanese Village Is Peaceful

By TERENCE SMITH

Jourdeh, Israel — The border between Israel and Lebanon that divides this Arab village is a dirt track, no wider than the jeeps that use it, and marked only by an occasional pile of whitewashed stones.

There is no fence here, and unlike Israel's tense frontiers with Syria, Jordan and Egypt, no barbed wire or soldiers with machine guns. The tobacco that grows right to the southern edge of the road is Israeli tobacco, that on the northern edge is Lebanese.

One afternoon last week there was an exercise in inadvertant international cooperation. A rotating Israeli sprinkler, apparently unaware that Israel and Lebanon are technically at war, was inadvertantly watering a field of Lebanese tobacco on the other side of the road.

Sheep 'Infiltrate'

There are border incidents nearly every day in Jourdeh, but the infiltrators are usually sheep. Oblivious to the political realities, they graze freely on either side of the road, depending on where the grass is greener.

For the people of Jourdeh, it is decidedly greener on the Lebanese side of the street. The 200 Arabs who live there have electricity and running water in their homes, while the 75 arabs on the Israeli side have neither.

There are, of course, relatives on either side of the border, but technically they are forbidden to visit or even speak to each other. The two halves of the village share a common graveyard that straddles the border, however, and on a recent morning two funeral processions — one Israeli and one Lebanese — arrived at the cemetery simultaneously.

An Israeli border policeman solved the dilemma by stationing himself between the two groups of mourners. The separate ceremonies were conducted without incident.

Quiet Border

Israel's "quiet" border runs 65 miles from the white chalk cliffs of Rosh Hanikra on the Mediterranean coast eastward through heavily wooded mountainous countryside to the point where the Banyas River comes bubbling out of the side of Mount Herman.

Until last June the Banyas was the start of Syrian territory, but now the land to the east of it is Israeli-held.

There are dozens of small Arab villages along the length of the Israel-Lebanese border. They are mixed Moslem and Christian Arab villages, and most of them have both a minaret and church steeple.

PLEA FOR REAGAN . . . by Rafferty, right, is heard by Sen. Hruska.

Federal Agents Aid In Protection Of Candidates At GOP Convention

Miami Beach (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, a favorite target of Republican orators, sent a personal agent to the GOP National Convention to coordinate an unprecedented federal security force helping protect the candidates.

"Never before has there been federal interest in any convention unless a president arrived," said Wes Pomeroy, special assistant to Clark for law enforcement. "It is a tremendous extension of federal repsonsibility."

Pomeroy, 48, a former undersheriff from San Mateo, Calif., is coordinating — though not direcint" — the overall security force that includes at least 1,200 local, county, state and federal law enforcement agents.

Ordered By LBJ

After the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles early in June, President Johnson ordered secret service protection extended to all major presidential candidates.

Augmenting the basic 250 man Miami Beach police department are officers from the Miami police, Dade County police and sheriff's deputies, s Florida conservation police, secret service agents, FBI men, narcotics agents and other federal officers.

In an interview with UPI Wednesday, Pomeroy stressed that the secret service had the major responsibility for protecting the candidates.

Pomeroy said the Florida highway patrol strengthened its force around convention hall for Wednesday night's key nominating session. There were 200 patrolmen around the hall and on its rooftop for the opening two days. Pomeroy would not say how large the increase in manpower was. Others said there would be 50 more.

Prevent Demonstrations

Part of Pomeroy's job has been to help in private negotiations aimed at keeping demonstrations that could lead to incidents away from convention hall.

Pomeroy said the relative ease with which the convention is being policed reflected the work of Chief Rocky Pomerance of the Miami Beach police department.

"There's nothing soft or permissive about him," he said, reacting to GOP charges about lack of law enforcement in the country. "He's a professional, even - tempered man who doesn't lose his cool."

Commander Released

Brussels (UPI) — Former Congo mercenary commander Jean "Black Jack" Schramme was granted provisional release from jail pending trial for allegedly murdering a Belgian national in the Congo.

Sen. Hruska Told Delegates To Stand Firm Behind Nixon

Miami Beach — Sen. Roman Hruska told Nebraska's national convention delegation Wednesday prior to the nominating session that it "should stay firm" behind Richard Nixon until he releases it.

Elected Nixon delegates were only committed legally to Nixon for two convention ballots.

Hruska, chairman of the delegation, was not committed to the former vice president by law, but was publicly pledged to Nixon until released.

Hruska's comments followed an appearance before the delegates by Max Rafferty in behalf of Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. Nebraska delegates were wooed a day earlier by Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois, who was boosting the candidacy of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.

The delegation decided to participate in the floor demonstration for Nixon Wednesday night, and sit out the other demonstrations.

In a wry comment, Hruska said he presumed that the delegation did not wish to place any favorite sons in nomination.

Out Of Style

Nebraska's primary election "decided that favorite sons are out of style" in the Cornhusker state, he suggested.

A favorite son drive in behalf of Hruska faded well before the election, and all uncommitted delegate candidates associated with the effort were defeated at the polls.

Hruska said he was "very pleased" with the convention's acceptance of the party platform. It was adopted early Wednesday morning after a lengthy night session.

As chairman of the subcommittee on economic affairs, Hruska presented one section of the document to the full convention.

Mismanagement

Economic troubles at home and abroad are "a result of Johnson-Humphrey deplorable mismanagement," he said.

The economy's woes include rampant inflation, crippling interest rates, heavy taxes and a crisis in the international balance of payments, the senator said.

"By establishing responsible priorities, we will rein in this federal budget gone wild," Hruska insisted.

"With exercise of common sense and discipline, we can meet our needs."

Reduce Taxes

"Savings made available by the ending of the war, after providing for needs of returning veterans and restoration of national defense, will be applied to critical domestic needs and to reduction of taxes."

Tax reform and "tax simplification" are also on the Republican agenda, he said.

"And where the federal government seeks to enter into competition with private enterprise, we'll just stop it dead in its tracks," Hruska declared.

"We will cut the federal spending and re-establish sound monetary policies," he promised. And, he noted, "We will take a hard look at our overseas commitments."

Lower Barriers

In trade policy, "We promise a return to hard-headed bargaining to lower the non-tariff barriers against American exports," Hruska said.

Controls on imports will receive special attention, he noted.

"Through international agreements, imports can participate in our growth of consumption," Hruska said. "But they must not run away with our markets."

One Nebraska delegate, Harold Sutton of McCook, cast a lonely "nay" vote against adoption of the platform.

Choice Steers Best Sellers At 25c Lower

Omaha (AP) — Selective demand continued to keep the market on feed cattle in the grip of lethargy at Omaha Wednesday.

Reflecting a wholesale dressed beef preference for choice steer carcasses weighing 700-800 lbs., buyers centered initial bids on live steers scaling upwards of 1,100 pounds. These sold best in a generally weak to 25 cents lower market.

Most downward pressure was evident on lighter weight heifers.

Cows sold about steady at the week's decline, other cattle classes little changed.

Substantial gains in volume of livestock slaughter in recent weeks backgrounded the trade. Most observers see a sizeable total supply of red meat in coming months, with imported products adding to the total volume. However, demand so far is keeping pace with supply. The increases in cattle in feedlots reported for July 1 will not show up in the slaughter consist before mid-October.

Fed steer top Wednesday settled at $28.60 for two loads of choice to prime 1,201 lb. beeves.

Best heifers here $27.35 for load choice to prime 1,064 lb. weights of reputation feeding.

Butcher hogs turned steady to 25 cents lower for the most part However, outside top was 25 cents higher at $20.75 for a short two-hundred head on order guyer account.

Fat lambs and ewes sold steady. Best new crop wooled and no. 1 pelt shorn brought $25-25.50.

All Commodities Generally Lower

Chicago (AP) — All commodities were generally lower on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday and wheat futures declined for the eighth straight session.

Trade had opened on a relatively active pace, but slowed after about an hour.

Seasonal lows were either equalled or set in wheat, corn, rye and soybeans contracts.

At about 10 a.m., the Conrad Leslie Crop Report was issued by Lamson Bros. & Co. and prices came under selling pressure.

Leslie, considered an authoritative statistician, said that as of Aug. 1 farmers this year would produce the second largest corn crop on record, an estimated 4.562 billion bushels, compared with last year's record 4.722 billion bushels. He estimated all wheat production at a record 1.574 billion bushels, soybeans at a record 1.074 billion bushels and oats at a record 912 million bushels.

At the close, wheat was ⅛ to ¾ cent a bushel lower, September 1.21¼; corn ⅜ to ⅝ lower, September 1.04⅞; oats were ½ lower to ⅛ higher, September 58½ cents; rye was unchanged to ⅝ lower, September 1.08½; and soybeans were unchanged to ½ higher, August 2.66½.

Pope Advises Christians To Reform

Castel Gandolfo, Italy (UPI) — Pope Paul VI Wednesday warned the Roman Catholic church could not turn away from "its tested traditions" and said Christians should concern themselves more with reforms in themselves than reforms in the church.

The pontiff did not mention the controversial encyclical he issued last week that reaffirmed the church's traditional ban against artificial birth control, but Vatican observers said the Pope may have had it in mind during his weekly general audience speech.

The Pope said there was a "plausible requirement of organizational and pastoral changes" in the church but that sometimes the desire for change "consists in a conformity to the mentality and customs of our time."

The pontiff said it would be a mistake "to build a church inconsistent with its tested traditions and delineated according to arbitrary structures."

Resignation Accepted

Austin, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson announced he has accepted the resignation of Katharine Elkus Whiite, ambassador to Denmark.

NAPTIME FRIENDS

These three friends, a Siamese cat and two gerbils, get along well enough to take siestas together each afternoon. Gerbils are rodents related to kangaroo rats, and have not been known to be popular with cats, until now. They all belong to Hal Harris of Dayton, Ohio.

Studies Indicate Criminality Linked With Chromosomes

© New York Times Service

Bar Harbor, Maine — Recent studies indicate that a genetic abnormality that has been linked with criminality may occur in as many as one in 300 men.

The abnormality, which has been found in nearly four per cent of inmates in a Scottish maximum-security prison, is the presence of an extra Y chromosome in themen's genetic make-up.

The Y chromosome contains the genes that determine maleness. Men with an extra Y chromosome are know as XYY males.

A normal male would have an XY make-up, while females are XX.

New Evidence

Previous estimates of the incidence of this abnormality were one out of every 2,000 men.

The new evidence, which was presented at a medical genetics seminar here this week, was obtained from surveys of newborn infants in four cities — New Haven, Pittsburgh, London, Canada, and Edinburgh.

Microscopic examinations were made of the chromosomes in the cells of some 3,700 infants, about half of whom were males. Six of the male infants were found to have an extra Y chromosome.

If this incidence of one in 300 men holds for the United States at large, there could be as many as one-third of a million American males who are XYY's, according to Dr. Park S. Gerald, pediatrician at Harvard University, who presented a summary of the new findings.

Several Murderers

Adult XYY men who have been studied to date show a tendency toward tallness, acne, mental dullness and aggressive — sometimes violent — behavior. Several are convicted murderers.

Gerald stressed his belief that a long-term study be made to determine the eventual fate of XYY infants. Such a study, he said, should involve genetic analyses of 50,000 male infants and a 10-to-15-year followup study of all those who were found to be XYY.

He said that he and his colleagues at Harvard University were planning to do such a study "until the Vietnam war cut off our funds." He estimated that such a study would cost about $700,000.

Walling Named Official Director Of Southeast 'Y'

Henry Walling, who has been acting executive director of the Southeast Branch of the YMCA for the past two months, was made official director of the branch Wednesday night at a special annual meeting.

Walling, former director of the Central Branch of the YMCA, was made acting director of the Southeast Branch following the death of Ollie Tod in May.

Members of the branch voted on a constitution change which will enlarge the board of management from 18 to 24 persons.

In other action, members viewed preliminary drawings of the new Southeast Branch facilities to be located at 62nd and Normal.

The drawings, by the architectual firm of Clark & Enersen, Olsson, Burroughs & Thomsen, will be reviewed at a future meeting of the YMCA branch.

United Jetliner To Be Christened 'City Of Lincoln'

A United Air Lines Boeing 737 jetliner will be christened the "City of Lincoln" Sunday during an open house at Lincoln Municipal Airport.

Mrs. Sam Schwartzkopf, wife of the Lincoln mayor, will officially christen the new jetliner by pouring a silver bowl of champagne over its nose.

United inaugurates daily nonstop 737 service between Lincoln and Chicago on Aug. 15.

Certified Hearing Aid Audiologist

How can deficient hearing be discovered in a child?
I have told you about how this can be done during the first year of life. Alert parents will discover that from one year to two that the child does not have a jargon which sounds like he is trying to imitate the patterns of speech he hears around him.
The child should have words like "mama," "dada" and "no" and sounds which stand for words like "bye bye," "more," "all gone," etc.
Next week I will give you some clues on children from two to three years of age.
If there is any indication of a hearing loss bring it to the attention of your pediatrician or Ear Doctor.

Political Arrests Reported During Absence Of Nasser

© New York Times Service

Cairo — Knowledgeable Egyptians and foreign observers sympathetic to the Cairo government have reported a number of apparently political arrests here in recent days while President Gamal Abdel Nasser has been undergoing medical treatment in the Soviet Union.

According to some of the reports, which have not been confirmed, at least 40 Egyptians, including army officers, have been taken into custody since the lst week in July, when Nasser left for a sanatorium in Soviet Georgia. The reports have contributed to feelings of disquiet in Cairo that are based on rumors of dissidence within the Army and in fears about the gravity of a leg ailment from which Nasser, a diabetic, is suffering.

Apprehension has persisted despite a declaration by the chief government spokesman, Mohammed H. El-Zayyat, that "the president's health is improving; we hope that he will be with us in three weeks."

Arrests Denied

Answering questions at a news conference last week Zayyat, a former diplomat highly respected by the Egyptians, also declared that "it's not true that members of the national assembly were arrested last weekend or recently." He did not elaborate.

Nor did Zayatt specify the president's ailment, but some qualified medical men in Cairo say it is probably Buergers disease, also known as Thrombo-Angiitis Obliterans.

Associated with diabetes, this disease causes numbness in affected limbs — a symptom of which Nasser has comlpained in the past. It entails curtailment of circulation and is said sometimes to lead to gangrene, necessitating amputation of limbs.

The only treatment is said here to be physiotherapy, which Nasser is having in the Soviet Union.

General In Power

In his absence one of most powerful men in country is the Minister of War, Gen. Mohammed Fawzi, a career officer. The general enjoys less than the wholehearted support of at least some junior officers who have not greatly benefited from shake-ups in the armed forces that followed the six-day Arab-Israeli war last year.

Though no evidence has appeared of any widespread plotting against the government or General Fawzi, there has been speculation that the reported arrests might reflect tensions in the military.

There have also been indications of concern in high places — including some unusually stringent security measures in recent weeks — about the possibility of open dissidence in the armed forces.

In addition, there have been repeated reports of abortive plots this summer on the president's life. But these have not been confirmed, nor have the rumors that Nasser will step down after his return from the Soviet Union and continue solely as head of the Arab Socialist Union, the only legal political organization in the United Arab Republic.

W. Kentucky Coal Miners Said Trapped

Greenville, Ky. (AP) — Nine men were reported trapped Wednesday in a searing, smoke-filled tunnel following an explosion in a coal mine south of this small community in Western Kentucky.

Rescue operations were expected to continue throughout the night in an effort to rescue the miners, who have been trapped since about noon Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Greenville City Hospital said that LaVerne C. Drake, one of the men who entered the mine with those who became trapped, was being treated for injuries suffered in the explosion. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

It was not known immeditely how Drake managed to escape the cave-in.

An eyewitness near the entrance to the mine said that the 'smoke and dust rolling out of the mine entrance is so rough that they (the rescue workers) can't get down to them."

At one point in the rescue attempt, the underground temperature was reported above 200 degrees Farenheit.

The exact location and depth of the miners in the underground catacomb of tunnels and shafts was not known.

Attempts were under way, however, to drill an air shaft into the area where the miners were believed to be trapped.

Nine hours after the men were reported trapped, rescue workers said they thought they were about 1,500 feet from reaching the miners.

The Silver Star for gallantry, the Air Medal, Purple Heart with cluster and two Bronze Star citations were awarded Lajoie.

Sen. Long Defeated In Missouri Primary

By The Associated Press

Missouri's Democrats dumped incumbent Sen. Edward V. Long in Tuesday's primary and he promptly called his defeat "a great victory for the wiretappers, snoopers and federal bureaucrats who violate the constitutional rights of our citizens."

Long had been under fire by Life Magazine articles suggesting he misused his office to help Teamsters Union president James R. Hoffa and to make work for the Steamfitters' Union in St. Louis.

He called the articles a smear and an attempt to influence the primary.

Congratulations Wired

As the returns neared completion, Long wired congratulations Wednesday to Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, who snatched the Democratic senatorial nomination from him.

"The citizens of Missouri have spoken and the campaign is over," Long said.

Then he gave a newsman his bitter appraisal of victory for the "wiretappers, snoopers and federal bureaucrats."

The reference, apparently, was to a Senate investigation which Long headed into eavesdropping, wiretapping and what he termed other invasions of privacy.

Long, 60, was appointed to the Senate in 1960 upon the death of Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr., and won election to a full term in 1962.

In Missouri's 1st Congressional District, William Clay won the Democratic nomination and Curtis Crawford the Republican nomination, guaranteeing that Missouri would send its first Negro to Congress this year.

And the Democrats, approving a familiar name, nominated James W. Symington to Congress in the 2nd District. Symington, who resigned as U.S. chief of protocal to seek the nomination, is a son of Missouri's senior senator, Stuart Symington.

He will run against Republican Hugh Scott, namesake of Pennsylvania's Republican senator.

Elsewhere in the nation, Rep. Bob Dole won the Republican nomination to the Senate in a Kansas primary, defeating former Gov. William H. Avery.

Dole will face William I. Robinson, a Wichita attorney, for the seat of Republican Sen. Frank Carlson, who is retiring.

Rick Harman, businessman and former college basketball star, was nominated by the GOP to contest the Kansas governorship with incumbent Democrat Robert Docking, who was unopposed for renomination.

Fulbright To Ask For Delegation For Favorite Son

Little Rock, Ark. (UPI) — U.S. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., probably will ask the Arkansas Delegation to send him to the Democratic National Convention as a favorite son instead of casting its 33 votes under the unit rule for Vice President Hubert Humphrey, United Press International learned Wednesday.

The prospective move was viewed in some quarters as an effort to keep the convention open and in turn give more life to the presidential hopes of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., who like Fulbright has caustically criticized President Johnson's policy in Vietnam.

Others thought of the nomination as just a publicity plum for Fulbright, who faces Republican opposition in his quest for a fifth term, in the November general election.

Democrat Survey Shows Humphrey Ahead of Gene

Princeton, N.J. (UPI) — The latest Gallup Poll of Democratic voters shows Vice President Hubert Humphrey holding a lead of 53 to 39% over Sen. Eugene McCarthy, it was reported Wednesday.

The survey showed that among independents, McCarthy holds a 53 to 32% lead over Humphrey.

A spokesman for the Gallup organization said Humphrey was stronger with Democrats who generally approve of President Johnson's performance, older voters, those with less college education, and those living in the East, South and Midwest.

McCarthy is stronger with Democrats who express disapproval of administration policies, younger voters, those with more college education, and those in the far West.

Firm That Just Received Government Pact Indicted

Washington (AP) — A Missouri firm that received a $13.9 million contract for rocket launchers only two weeks ago was charged Wednesday with creating phantom suppliers and receiving kickbacks on previous contracts of more than $47 million.

The indictment charges that more than $4 million was funneled to Swiss banks by the defendants "well knowing that their interest in accounts in Swiss banks could and would be disguised and concealed" by co-conspirators.

A Navy information officer said the indictments will have no effect on the new contract awarded by the Naval Air Systems Command on July 23 to Techfab Division of Alsco Inc. of St. Louis.

The Associated Press at the time of the award disclosed that the firm's previous contracts were involved in a federal grand jury investigation.

Chromcraft Corp., which merged with Alsco in 1966, was named a defendant along with the successor firm. Individuals named as defendants were Andrew L. Stone, principal stockholder, chief executive officer and a director of Chromcraft; Francis N. Rosenbaum, the firm's counsel in Washington and a director Evelyn R. Price, executive secretary to Stone; and Robert B. Bregman, owner of Bregman Electronics Inc., of New York City.

Chromcraft, and later the Techfab Division of Alsco, have since 1962 been the sole supplier of 2.75 inch rocket launchers to the Navy. The launchers are used for folding fin aircraft rockets — missiles fired either air-to-air or air-to-ground.

The indictment says the defendants set up two firms —Scientific Electronics Ltd. and Bregman Electronics Inc. — each to be "a dummy corporation subject to the direction, control and use by the defendants as a conduit for the diversion of monies fraudulently obtained."

These dummy corporations, the indictment says, prepared purchase orders and invoices for items "that Chromcraft would not and did not purchase nor acquire," but for which the firm charged the government.

The two dummy firms sent their money to Switzerland and Lichtenstein, the indictment says, and the funds eventually landed in the hands of Hans Senn of the Bank Fur Handel and Effekten and Walter A. Lips at the Union Bank of Switzerland. Senn and Lips and Senn's bank were listed as co-conspirators but not as defendants.

The amounts transmitted to Switzerland were listed as $2,227,592.13 and $1,180,692.10.

Another count said Stone and Rosenbaum caused Western Molded Fibre Products Inc. of Gardena, Calif., to pay kickbacks of $663,481.05 through checks made out to five foreign payees. Western Molded made parts for Techfab.

The indictments cover the years 1963, 1964, 1965 and January to May 1966.
